Risks Relating to the Notes

The suitability of the Notes as an investment

Each potential investor in the Notes must determine the suitability of that investment in light of its own experience and financial situation. In particular, each potential investor should:

- (i) have sufficient knowledge and experience to make a meaningful evaluation of the relevant Notes, the merits and risks of investing in the relevant Notes and the information contained or incorporated by reference in this Base Prospectus or in any supplements to the Base Prospectus and the Final Terms for Notes;
- (ii) have access to, and knowledge of, appropriate analytical tools to evaluate in the context of its particular financial situation the relevant Notes and the impact an investment in the relevant Notes will have on the its overall investment portfolio;
- (iii) have sufficient financial resources and liquidity to bear all of the risks resulting from an investment in the relevant Notes, including Notes with principal or interest payable in one or more currencies, or where the currency for principal or interest payments is different from the currency in which such potential investor's financial activities are principally denominated, or Notes where the principal may be lost in whole or in part;
- (iv) understand thoroughly the Terms and Conditions in this Base Prospectus and the Final Terms of the relevant Notes and be familiar with the behaviour of any relevant indices, other reference assets and the financial markets;
- (v) be able to foresee and evaluate (either alone or with the assistance of a financial advisor), possible scenarios, e.g. for economic, interest rate and other factors, that may affect the investment in the relevant Notes and the investor's ability to bear the applicable risks which may result from an investment in the relevant Notes.

Certain Notes are complex financial instruments. Sophisticated investors do not generally purchase complex financial instruments as independent investments but, rather, as a way to reduce risk or to increase the yield and as a calculated risk add-on to the investor's investment portfolio in general. An investor should not invest in Notes that are complex financial instruments without possessing sufficient expertise (either alone or with the assistance of a financial advisor) to evaluate the performance of Notes, the value of Notes and the impact this investment may have on the investor's overall investment portfolio under changed circumstances, as well as to assess the tax treatment of the relevant Notes.

The various structures of Notes intended to be issued under this Base Prospectus are addressed in more detail on pages 26-35 of this Base Prospectus.

Risk factors:

A number of factors affect, and may affect, the Banks' operations as well as the Notes issued under the MTN Programme. There are risks associated both with circumstances relating to the Banks and to the Notes issued under the MTN Programme, as well as risks due to such circumstances that are not specifically linked to the Banks and the Notes.

The risks associated with the Banks' operations relate primarily to credit and market risks but also to other risks, such as operational risks and liquidity risks. Credit risk is the risk of loss if counterparties of the issuing Bank fails to meet their obligations and any security or guarantees do not cover the claims of the issuing Bank. The market risk is defined as the risk of loss in market value as a result of movements in financial market variables such as interest rates, foreign exchange rates, equity prices and commodity prices. There are also liquidity risks, which is the risk of being able to meet liquidity commitments only at increased costs or, ultimately, being unable to meet obligations as they fall due, as well as operational risks, defined by the Issuing Bank as the risk of incurring losses, including damaged reputation, due to deficiencies or errors in internal processes and control routines or by external events that affect operations. Holders of the Notes issued under the Programme assume a credit risk on the issuing Bank.

The likelihood of a holder of Notes to receive payment under the Notes is dependant on the issuing Bank's ability to fulfil its obligations to pay interest on Notes and repay the principal amount, which in turn is dependant on the development of the issuing Bank's business.

Risks associated with Notes relate to, among other things, changes in interest rates, exchange rates, whether the Banks are entitled to redeem the Notes prior to the stated maturity, the complexity of the Notes, fluctuations in the relevant indices, other reference assets or the financial market and whether the redemption amount depends on factors other than the Banks' credit ratings.

Resolutions passed at duly convened meetings of Holders are binding on all holders of Notes provided that certain levels of majority have been reached. Further to this, changes in terms and conditions and a substitution of debtor may occur on the conditions set out in the Terms and Conditions.

Some of the risks are related to circumstances beyond the Banks' control, such as the existence of an effective secondary market, the stability of the relevant clearing and settlement system, as well as the macro economic situation in the Nordic economies and the world at large.

This summary of risks represents only a brief description of certain important risks and does not constitute a full account of the risk factors pertaining to the Notes issued under the MTN Programme. A number of risk factors are described in more detail on the following pages. These should be read in detail by the investor, as should the other information in the Base Prospectus.

RISK FACTORS

An investment in the Notes involves a degree of risk. Prospective investors should carefully consider the risks set forth below and the other information contained in this Base Prospectus prior to making any investment decision with respect to the Notes. The risks described below could have a material adverse effect on the Nordea Group's business, results of operations or financial condition or the value of the Notes. Additional risks and uncertainties, including those of which the Banks' management is not currently aware or deems immaterial, may also potentially have an adverse effect on the Banks' business, results of operations, financial condition or future prospects or may result in other events that could cause investors to lose all or part of their investment.

The risk factors below are not ranked in any order of importance and do not purport to be exhaustive. In addition to risk factors stated below, the reader should also carefully note the other information in the Base Prospectus and the specific risks set forth in the specific Final Terms applying to each note.

Risks relating to the Current Macroeconomic conditions

The current disruptions and volatility in the global financial markets may adversely impact the Nordea Group

Since August 2007, the global financial system has experienced unprecedented credit and liquidity conditions and disruptions leading to a reduction in liquidity, greater volatility, general widening of spreads and, in some cases, lack of price transparency in money and capital markets interest rates. Although financial markets have shown some degree of stabilization and economic recovery has continued in 2010, the recovery has been fragile and uncertainty about future developments of the market remains. Any further turbulence in the global credit and liquidity markets, or a recovery of the business activity in the Nordea Group's principal markets that is longer than expected, could have a material adverse effect on the Nordea Group's ability to access capital and liquidity on financial terms acceptable to the Nordea Group. Any of the foregoing factors could have a material adverse effect on the Nordea Group's business, financial condition and results of operations.

Negative economic developments and conditions in the markets in which the Nordea Group operates can adversely affect the Nordea Group's business and results of operations

The Nordea Group's performance is significantly influenced by the general economic condition in the countries in which it operates, in particular the Nordic markets (Denmark, Finland, Norway and Sweden) and, to a lesser degree, in the New European Markets (Poland, Russia and the Baltic countries). The economic situation in all four Nordic markets as well as the New European Markets was in various ways adversely affected by weakened economic conditions and the turmoil in the global financial markets. In particular, these countries have experienced declining economic growth, increasing rates of unemployment as well as decreasing asset values. Adverse economic developments of the kind described above have affected and may continue to affect the Nordea Group's business in a number of ways, including, among others, the income, wealth, liquidity, business and/or financial condition of the Nordea Group's customers, which, in turn, could further reduce the Nordea Group's credit quality and demand for the Nordea Group's financial products and services. As a result, any or all of the conditions described above could continue to have a material adverse effect on the Nordea Group's business, financial condition and results of operations. As a result, any or all of the conditions described above could continue to have a material adverse effect on the Nordea Group's business, financial condition and results of operations. Although economic recovery has continued in 2010, it is difficult to predict changes in economic and market conditions and what effects such changes may have and there is no way to be certain that the measures implemented by the Nordea Group will be satisfactory to reduce any credit, market and liquidity risks.

Credit risks

Deterioration in counterparties' credit quality may affect the Nordea Group's financial performance

Risks arising from changes in credit quality and the recoverability of loans and amounts due from counterparties are inherent in a wide range of the Nordea Group's businesses. The Nordea Group makes provisions for loan losses in accordance with IFRS; however, the provisions made are based on available information, estimates and assumptions and are subject to uncertainty, and there can be no assurances that the provisions will be sufficient to cover the amount of loan losses as they occur. Adverse changes in the credit quality of the Nordea Group's borrowers and counterparties or a fall in collateral values, to affect the recoverability and value of the Nordea Group's assets and require an increase in the Nordea Group's individual provisions and potentially in collective provisions, which in turn would adversely affect the Nordea Group's financial performance. In particular, the Nordea Group's exposure to corporate customers is subject to adverse changes in credit quality in the current economic environment in the Nordea Group's markets. Actual loan losses vary over the business cycle, and additional loan losses may occur at a rate higher than experienced in the past due to the prevailing market conditions. A significant increase in the size of the Nordea Group's allowance for loan losses and loan losses not covered by allowances would have a material adverse effect on the Nordea Group's business, financial condition and results of operations.

As the economies of the New European Markets have deteriorated, credit risk associated with certain borrowers and counterparties in these markets has increased. The Nordea Group is also indirectly exposed to foreign exchange risk in the New European Markets, where loans to customers typically are denominated in the euro or U.S. dollars, though customers typically derive their main income in local currencies.

The Nordea Group is exposed to counterparty credit risk

The Nordea Group routinely executes transactions with counterparties in the financial services industry, including brokers and dealers, commercial banks, investment banks, funds and other institutional and corporate clients. Many of these transactions expose the Nordea Group to the risk that the Nordea Group's counterparty in a foreign exchange, interest rate, commodity, equity or credit derivative contract defaults on its obligations prior to maturity when the Nordea Group has an outstanding claim against that counterparty. Due to recent volatility in foreign exchange and fixed income markets this risk has increased. This credit risk may also be exacerbated when the collateral held by the Nordea Group cannot be realised or is liquidated at prices not sufficient to recover the full amount of the counterparty exposure. Any of the foregoing could have a material adverse effect on the Nordea Group's business, financial condition and results of operations.

As a consequence of its transactions in financial instruments, including foreign exchange rate and derivative contracts, the Nordea Group is also exposed to settlement risk and transfer risk. Settlement risk is the risk of losing the principal on a financial contract due to default by the counterparty or after when the Nordea Group has given irrevocable instructions for a transfer of a principal amount or security, but before receipt of the corresponding payment or security has been finally confirmed, and transfer risk is the risk attributable to the transfer of money from a country other than the country where a borrower is domiciled, which is affected by the changes in the economic conditions and political situation in the countries concerned.

Risks Relating to Market Exposure

The Nordea Group is exposed to market price risk

The Nordea Group's customer-driven trading operations (where positions, within certain defined limits, are taken) and its Treasury operations (where the Nordea Group holds investment and liquidity portfolios for its own account) are the key contributors to market price risk in the Nordea Group. The fair value of financial instruments held by the Nordea Group, including bonds (government, corporate and mortgage), equity investments, cash in various currencies, investments in private equity and hedge funds, commodities and derivatives (including credit derivatives), are sensitive to volatility of and correlations between various market variables, including interest rates, credit spreads, equity prices and foreign exchange rates. To the extent volatile market conditions persist or recur, the fair value of the Nordea Group's bond, derivative and structured credit portfolios, as well as other classes, could fall more than estimated, and therefore cause the Nordea Group to record write-downs. Future valuations of the assets for which the Nordea Group has already recorded or estimated write-downs, which will reflect the then-prevailing market conditions, may result in significant changes in the fair values of these assets. Further, the value of certain financial instruments are recorded at fair value which is determined by using financial models incorporating assumptions and estimations that are inherently uncertain and which may change over time or may ultimately be inaccurate. Any of these factors could require the Nordea Group to recognise further write-downs or realise impairment charges, which may have a material adverse effect on the Nordea Group's business, financial condition and results of operations. In addition, because the Nordea Group's trading and investment income depends to a great extent on the performance of financial markets, the volatile market conditions could result in a significant decline in the Nordea Group's trading and investment income, or result in a trading loss, which in turn could have a material adverse effect on the Nordea Group's business, financial condition and results of operations.

The Nordea Group is exposed to structural market risk

Structural interest rate risk

Like all banks, the Nordea Group earns interest from loans and other assets, and pays interest to its depositors and other creditors. The net effect of changes to the Nordea Group's net interest income depends on the relative levels of assets and liabilities that are affected by the changes in interest rates. The Nordea Group is exposed to Structural Interest Income Risk ("SIIR") when there is a mismatch between the interest rate re-pricing periods, volumes or reference rates of its assets, liabilities and derivatives. This mismatch in any given period in the event of changes in interest rates could have a material adverse effect on the Nordea Group's financial condition and results of operations.

Structural foreign exchange risk

The Nordea Group is exposed to currency translation risk primarily as a result of its Swedish and Norwegian banking businesses, as it prepares its consolidated financial statements in its functional currency, the euro. The Nordea Group's functional currency for its Danish banking business is the Danish krone, which is pegged to the euro. Because the Nordea Group shows translation differences between the local currency denominated equity positions of its fully consolidated subsidiaries, the euro effects arising from currency translation may reduce equity. In addition, because some of the Nordea Group's consolidated risk-weighted assets ("RWA"), against which the Nordea Group is required to hold a minimum level of capital, are denominated in local currencies, any significant depreciation of the euro against these local currencies would adversely impact the Nordea Group's capital adequacy ratios. While the Nordea Group, as a general matter, follows a policy of hedging its foreign exchange risk by seeking to match the currency of its assets with the currency of the liabilities that fund them, there can be no assurances that the Nordea Group will be able to successfully hedge some or all of this currency risk exposure.

Risks relating to Liquidity and Capital Requirements

Liquidity risk is inherent in the Nordea Group's operations

Liquidity risk is the risk that the Nordea Group will be unable to meet its obligations as they fall due or meet its liquidity commitments only at an increased cost. A substantial part of the Nordea Group's liquidity and funding requirements is met through reliance on customer deposits, as well as ongoing access to wholesale lending markets, including issuance of long-term debt market instruments such as covered bonds. The volume of these funding sources, in particular long-term funding, may be constrained during periods of liquidity stress. Turbulence in the global financial markets and economy may adversely affect the Nordea Group's liquidity and the willingness of certain counterparties and customers to do business with the Nordea Group, which may result in a material adverse effect on the Nordea Group's business and results of operations.

The Nordea Group's business performance could be affected if its capital adequacy ratios are reduced or perceived to be inadequate.

Under the Capital Requirements Directive, the Nordea Group is required to maintain certain capital adequacy ratios. Debt and equity investors, analysts and other market professionals may require higher capital buffers due to, among other things, the current general uncertainty involving the financial services industry and the uncertain global economic conditions. This market perception may increase the Nordea Group's borrowing costs, limit its access to capital markets or result in a downgrade in its ratings, which could have a material adverse effect on its results of operations, and financial condition and liquidity. In addition, lower internal credit rating of customers, substantial market volatility, widening credit spreads, changes in the general capital adequacy regulatory framework or regulatory treatment of certain positions, changes in foreign exchange rates, decreases in collateral ratios as a consequence of the deterioration of the market value of underlying assets, or further deterioration of the economic environment, among other things, could result in an increase in the Nordea Group's RWA, which potentially may reduce the Nordea Group's capital adequacy ratios. If the Nordea Group were to experience a reduction in its capital adequacy ratios, and could not raise further capital, it would have to reduce its lending or investments in other operations.

The Nordea Group's funding costs and its access to the debt capital markets depend significantly on its credit ratings

There can be no assurances that Nordea or its principal subsidiaries will be able to maintain their current ratings or that the Nordea Group can retain current ratings on its debt instruments. A reduction in the current long-term ratings of Nordea or one of its principal subsidiaries may increase its funding costs, limit access to the capital markets and trigger additional collateral requirements in derivative contracts and other secured funding arrangements. Therefore, a reduction in credit ratings could adversely affect the Nordea Group's access to liquidity and its competitive position, and therefore, have a material adverse effect on its business, financial condition and results of operations.

Other Risks Relating to the Nordea Group's Business

Operational risks, including risk in connection with investment advice, may affect the Nordea Group's business

The Nordea Group's business operations are dependent on the ability to process a large number of complex transactions across different markets in many currencies. Operations are carried out through a number of entities. Operational losses, including monetary damages, reputational damage, costs, and direct and indirect financial losses and/or write downs, may result from inadequacies or failures in internal processes, systems (among others, IT systems), licenses from external suppliers, fraud or other criminal actions, employee errors, outsourcing, failure to properly document transactions or agreements with customers, vendors, sub-contractors, co-operation partners and other third parties, or to obtain or maintain proper authorisation, or from customer complaints, failure to comply with regulatory requirements, including but not limited to anti-money laundering, data protection and antitrust regulations, conduct of business rules, equipment failures, failure to protect its assets, including intellectual property rights and collateral, failure of physical and security protection, natural disasters or the failure of external systems, including those of the Nordea Group's suppliers or counterparties and failure to fulfil its obligations, contractual or otherwise. Although the Nordea Group has implemented risk controls and taken other actions to mitigate exposures and/or losses, there can be no assurances that such procedures will be effective in controlling each of the operational risks faced by the Nordea Group, or that the Nordea Group's reputation will not be damaged by the occurrence of any operational risks. As a part of its banking and asset management activities, the Nordea Group provides its customers investment advice, access to internally as well as externally managed funds and serves as custodian of third-party funds. In the event of losses incurred by its customers due to investment advice from the Nordea Group, or the misconduct or fraudulent actions of external fund managers, the Nordea Group's customers may seek compensation from the Nordea Group. Such compensation might be sought even if the Nordea Group has no direct exposure to such risks, or has not recommended such counterparties to its customers. Any claims in this respect could have a material adverse effect on the Nordea Group's business, financial condition and results of operations.

The Nordea Group is subject to a variety of risks as a result of its operations, in particular in Poland, Russia and the Baltic countries

The Nordea Group's operations in the New European Markets present various risks that do not apply, or apply to a lesser degree, to its businesses in the Nordic markets. Some of these markets are typically more volatile and less developed economically and politically than markets in Western Europe and North America. The Nordea Group faces significant economic and political risk, including economic volatility, recession, inflationary pressure, exchange rate fluctuation risk and interruption of business, as well as civil unrest, moratorium, imposition of exchange controls, sanctions relating to specific countries, expropriation, nationalisation, renegotiation or nullification of existing contracts, sovereign default and changes in law or tax policy. For example, as a result of the ongoing recession, questions have been raised about the ability of countries in the Baltic region to react to the weakened conditions in the local economies and the ability of such countries and their residents to continue to perform on their respective obligations. Risks such as these could impact the ability or obligations of the Nordea Group's borrowers to repay their loans, impact the ability of the Nordea Group to utilise collateral held as security, impact interest rates and foreign exchange rates, and could adversely impact levels of economic activity, which would have a material adverse effect on the Nordea Group's business, financial condition and results of operations in these countries.

Profitability in the Nordea Group's life and pension business depends on regulations and guidelines in the countries in which it operates.

In addition to insurance risk and investment risks related to its life insurance business common to all life insurance and pension providers, Nordea's ability to generate profit from its insurance subsidiaries generally depends on the level of fees and other income generated by the insurance and pension business. The level of fees and other income which Nordea may earn from its life insurance subsidiaries differs from country to country, depending on regulations and guidelines promulgated by the relevant financial services authorities on shareholder fees, IFRS bridging, profit sharing and solvency requirements.

The Nordea Group could fail to attract or retain senior management or other key employees.

The Nordea Group's performance is, to a large extent, dependent on the talents and efforts of highly skilled individuals, and the continued ability of the Nordea Group to compete effectively and implement its strategy depends on its ability to attract new employees and retain and motivate existing employees. Competition from within the financial services industry, including from other financial institutions, as well as from businesses outside the financial services industry for key employees is intense. The Nordea Group is also subject to certain limitations imposed by the Swedish government on the remuneration of certain members of Nordea's senior management. Any loss of the services of key employees, particularly to competitors, or the inability to attract and retain highly skilled personnel in the future could have an adverse effect on the Nordea Group's business.

The Nordea Group faces competition in all markets.

There is competition for the types of banking and other products and services that the Nordea Group provides and there can be no assurances that the Nordea Group can maintain its competitive position. If the Nordea Group is unable to provide competitive product and service offerings, it may fail to attract new customers and/or retain existing customers, experience decreases on its interest, fee and commission income, and/or lose market share, the occurrence of any of which could have a material adverse effect on its business, financial condition and results of operations.

Risks Relating to the Legal and Regulatory Environment in which the Nordea Group Operates

The Nordea Group is subject to substantial regulation and oversight by a number of different regulators

The SFSA is the main regulator of the Nordea Group's operations, although the Nordea Group's operations in Denmark, Finland, Norway, Poland, Russia, Estonia, Latvia, Germany, Isle of Man, Luxembourg, Singapore and the United States are subject to direct scrutiny from the local regulators in these jurisdictions. The Nordea Group is also subject to the oversight of regulators in each country where it has a branch or representative office, including the United States, the Baltic countries and China. The Nordea Group is subject to laws and regulations, administrative actions and policies in each of the jurisdictions in which the Nordea Group is operating, all of which are subject to change, and compliance with which may from time to time require significant costs.

Areas where changes or developments in regulation and/or oversight could have an adverse impact include, but are not limited to (i) changes in monetary, interest rate and other policies, (ii) general changes in government and regulatory policies or regimes which may significantly influence investor decisions or may increase the costs of doing business in the Nordic markets, the New European Markets, and such other markets where the Nordea Group carries out its business (iii) changes in capital adequacy framework, imposition of onerous compliance obligations, restrictions on business growth or pricing and requirements to operate in a way that prioritises other objectives over shareholder value creation, (iv) changes in competition and pricing environments, (v) differentiation amongst financial institutions by governments with respect to the extension of guarantees to bank customer deposits and the terms attaching to such guarantees, (vi) expropriation, nationalisation, confiscation of assets and, changes in legislation relating to foreign ownership, (vii) further developments in the financial reporting environment, and (viii) other unfavourable political, military or diplomatic developments, in particular in the New European Markets, producing social instability or legal uncertainty, which in turn may affect demand for the Nordea Group's products and services.

These or any other restrictions, limitations on the operations of financial institutions and costs involved could have a material adverse effect on the Nordea Group's business, financial condition and results of operations.

Government actions intended to alleviate the effects of the current financial crisis may impact the Nordea Group

In the course of 2008 and 2009, in response to the severe market conditions, central banks and governments around the world, including in the Nordic markets, coordinated efforts to increase liquidity in, and promote the stability of, the financial markets by adopting measures such as increasing the amounts they lend directly to financial institutions, lowering interest rates, significantly increasing temporary reciprocal currency arrangements, expanding consumer deposit or other guarantee programmes and taking equity stakes in financial institutions. The recent signs of economic stabilization and the improvement of conditions in the financial markets have led to increasing speculation about when central banks and governments will begin to unwind the support measures introduced during the past two years. Of the Nordea Group's markets, this process has begun in Norway and gradually also in Sweden, and the European Central Bank has also taken initial steps to start scaling down its support measures. Major central banks are generally expected to commence a gradual winding down of support systems. However, there can be no assurances that a potential tightening of liquidity conditions in the future will not lead to new funding uncertainty, resulting in increased volatility and widening credit spreads. Should further measures be adopted, this could lead to increased government ownership and control over financial institutions, disparate competitive positions and further consolidation in the markets in which the Nordea Group operates, all of which could have a material adverse effect on the Nordea Group's business, financial condition and results of operations.

Legal and regulatory claims arise in the conduct of the Nordea Group's business

In the ordinary course of its business, the Nordea Group is subject to regulatory oversight and liability risk. The Nordea Group is carrying out operations through a number of legal entities in a number of jurisdictions and is subject to regulation in each such jurisdiction. Regulation and regulatory requirements are continuously amended and new requirements are imposed on the Nordea Group, including, but not limited to, regulations on conduct of business, anti-money laundering, payments, consumer credits, capital requirements, reporting and corporate governance. The Nordea Group is involved in a variety of claims, disputes, legal proceedings and governmental investigations in jurisdictions where it is active. These types of claims and proceedings expose the Nordea Group to monetary damages, direct or indirect costs, (including legal costs), direct or indirect financial loss, civil and criminal penalties, loss of licenses or authorisations, loss of reputation, as well as the potential for regulatory restrictions on its businesses, all of which could have a material adverse effect on the Nordea Group's business, financial condition and results of operations. Adverse regulatory actions against the Nordea Group or adverse judgments in litigation to which the Nordea Group is party could result in restrictions or limitations on the Nordea Group's operations or result in a material adverse effect on the Nordea Group's business, financial condition and results of operations.

The Nordea Group is exposed to risk of changes in tax legislation as well as to increases in the tax rates.

The Nordea Group's activities are subject to tax at various rates around the world computed in accordance with local legislation and practice. The Nordea Group's business, including intra-group transactions, is conducted in accordance with the Nordea Group's interpretation of applicable laws, tax treaties, regulations and requirements of the tax authorities in the relevant countries. Nordea has obtained advice from independent tax advisors in this respect. However, there can be no assurances that its interpretation of applicable laws, tax treaties, regulations, or administrative practice is correct, or that such rules are not changed, possibly with retroactive effect. Legislative changes or decisions by tax authorities may impair the present or previous tax position of the Nordea Group.

General risks relating to the Notes

Credit risk

Investors in Notes issued by the Banks are exposed to a credit risk on the Issuing Bank. The investor's ability to receive payment under a Note is thus dependent on the Issuing Banks' ability to fulfil its payment obligations, which in turn is to a large extent dependent on developments in the Banks' business and the Banks' financial performance, as set out above.

Credit rating

A credit rating is a rating which a borrower may receive from an independent credit rating agency with respect to its ability to perform its financial obligations. Credit rating is often referred to as "rating". Two of the most frequent rating agencies are Moody's and Standard & Poor's.

The Banks' credit rating does not always mirror the risk related to individual Notes under the MTN Programme. A credit rating is not a recommendation to buy, sell or hold securities or keep the investment. A credit rating be subject to suspension, reduction or withdrawal at any time by the assigning rating agency. The Banks access to the debt capital markets depend significantly on its credit ratings. In addition, real or anticipated changes in the issuer's credit ratings generally will affect the market value of the notes.

Cancelled or scaled down issue

The Banks reserve the right to cancel all or parts of an issue upon the occurrence of certain circumstances, e.g. where the subscribed amount does not reach certain levels or where an index figure cannot be determined to a certain level. The Banks also reserve the right to, at the sole discretion of the Banks, cancel an issue upon the occurrence of economic, financial or political events which may jeopardise a successful issue of Notes.

Noteholders' meeting

Section 13 of the Terms and Conditions provides that the Banks, Dealers, and holders may under certain conditions call a meeting of holders of Notes. The noteholders' meeting may make decisions that affect the Holders' rights and obligations under Notes and which are binding on all holders of Notes. The noteholders' meeting may also elect and issue instructions to a representative of the holders of Notes to act on their behalf before a court of law or enforcement authorities or in any other context.

Decisions made at a duly convened and conducted noteholders' meeting are binding on all holders of Notes irrespective of whether they have been present or represented at the meeting and irrespective of whether, and the manner in which, they voted at the meeting. Accordingly, a certain majority of noteholders may make decisions that are binding on a non-consenting minority.

Amendments to the terms and conditions for Notes and changes in the Programme Amount

The Banks and Dealers have the right to make amendments to the terms and conditions for Notes pursuant to section 12 of the Terms and Conditions. Evident and manifest errors in the Terms and Conditions and in the Final Terms, as well as information that, at the sole discretion of the bank, is deemed unclear can be adjusted without the consent of the holders.

The Banks and Dealers have the right to agree to increase or decrease the Programme Amount.

In section 12 it is further stated that the terms and conditions may be amended through decisions made at an Holders meeting. Such an amendment is binding on all Holders.

Substitution of debtor

The Banks are, subject to the conditions stated in the Terms and Conditions, entitled to substitute the Issuing Bank with another bank in the Nordea Group as debtor under a Note (and such transferee bank will assume all obligations of the Issuing Bank under such Note) without the consent of Holders and Dealers. The Banks shall notify the Holders of a change of debtor.

Legislative amendments

Notes are issued under Swedish, Finnish or Danish law in force as of the issue date. Any new statutes, ordinances and regulations, amendments to the legislation or changes in application of the law after the issue date may affect Notes and the Banks make no representations in this regard.

Holders have no security in the Bank's assets

Notes are unsecured debt instruments and the Holders would be unsecured creditors in the event of the Banks' bankruptcy (Sw. konkurs).

Capital Adequacy Regulatory Framework

In 2007, the Act on Capital Adequacy and Large Exposures (Sw. lag (2006:1371) om kapitaltäckning och stora exponeringar) was adopted to implement the European Capital Requirements Directive (comprising Directive 2006/48/EC and Directive 2006/49/EC) (which, as at the date of this Base Prospectus, is in the process of being reformed) (the "CRD") and the Basel II Requirements. Until fully implemented, the Issuer cannot predict the precise effects of the changes that result from implementation of the CRD or any proposed reforms of the CRD on both its own financial performance or the impact on the pricing of its Notes issued under the Programme. Prospective investors in the Notes should consult their own advisers as to the consequences for them of the potential application of the CRD.

Council Directive 2003/48/EC of 3 June 2003 on taxation of savings income in the form of interest payments

Under EC Council Directive 2003/48/EC on the taxation of savings income (the "EU Savings Directive"), each Member State is required to provide to the tax authorities of another Member State details of payments of interest or other similar income paid by a person within its jurisdiction to, or collected by such a person for, an individual resident or certain limited types of entity established in that other Member State; however, for a transitional period, Austria, Belgium and Luxembourg may instead apply a withholding system in relation to such payments, deducting tax at rates rising over time to 35%. The transitional period is to terminate at the end of the first full fiscal year following agreement by certain non-EU countries to the exchange of information relating to such payments. Belgium has replaced this withholding tax with a regime of exchange of information to the Member State of residence as from 1 January 2010

A number of non-EU countries, and certain dependent or associated territories of certain Member States, have adopted similar measures (either provision of information or transitional withholding) in relation to payments made by a person within its jurisdiction to, or collected by such a person for, an individual resident or certain limited types of entity established in a Member State. In addition, the Member States have entered into provision of information or transitional withholding arrangements with certain of those dependent or associated territories in relation to payments made by a person in a Member State to, or collected by such a person for, an individual resident or certain limited types of entity established in one of those territories.

On November 13, 2008 the European Commission published a proposal for amendments to the EU Savings Directive, which included a number of suggested changes which, if implemented, would broaden the scope of the requirements described above. The European Parliament approved an amended version of this proposal on 24 April 2009. Investors who are in any doubt as to their position should consult their professional advisers.

Risks relating to specific types of Notes

Risks related to the complexity of the product

The yield structure for structured Notes is sometimes complex and may contain mathematical formulae or relationships which, for the investor, may be difficult to understand and compare with other investment alternatives. The relationship between yield and risk may, for a layman, be difficult to assess. As to the correlation between yield and risk it can generally be said that a relatively high yield most often is associated with relatively greater levels of risk. One way of increasing the probability of a higher yield is, for example, to include leverage effects in the yield structure which results in that comparatively small changes in the performance of reference assets may have major effects for the value and yield on Notes. Such as structure is generally also associated with a higher risk (see below under the section, Risk relating to reference assets). The past performance of corresponding investments is only a description of the historical performance of the investment and shall not to be regarded as an indication of future yield. Information regarding past performance is not available with respect to certain reference objects; for example, this is the case with respect to certain hedge funds. Investors should carefully consider which yield structure applies to the Notes or Notes in which the investor is investing in order to obtain an understanding of how the relevant Notes operate in different scenarios and the risks an investment in the Notes entails. Under the section entitled Performance Structures, a description is provided on page 31-34 below of the yield structures for various Notes.

Risks relating to reference assets

With structured Notes (e.g. equity-linked Notes, currency-linked Notes, credit-linked Notes, fund-linked Notes, commodity-linked Notes and other possible structures) the yield, and sometimes also the repayment of principal, depends on the performance of one or more reference assets, commonly referred to as reference assets, such as equities ("private equity"), indices, interest rates, currencies, credit exposures (one or more), fund units, commodities or baskets thereof, or combinations or the relationship between assets. If the repayment of an invested amount is linked to the performance of reference assets, the investor may risk losing the entire invested amount. Structured Notes are often designed on the basis of a combination of different types of traditional instruments such as equities, fund units or a derivative instrument. These combinations of products may have elements of different instruments. The value of a structured Note will be affected by the value of the reference asset or the relevant comparison figure. The valuations of the reference asset may take place both during the term and on the Redemption Date and the performance may be positive or negative for the holder. The Holder's right to yield, and where applicable repayment, thus depends on the performance of the reference asset and applicable performance structure. The value of a structured Note may, in addition to changes in the price of the reference asset, be determined by the intensity of the price fluctuations of the reference asset (commonly referred to as volatility), expectations regarding future volatility, market interest rates and expected dividends or other distributions on the reference asset.

Risk relating to limited information

In relation to certain reference assets, e.g. certain hedge funds or indices composed of hedge funds, there is limited access to information since, among other things, the official closing price of some of these reference assets is published less frequently. The composition of certain indices and funds may be confidential for strategic reasons. Other factors limiting transparency in relation to such reference assets may be that the reference asset is not subject to continuous trading, that valuation models for determination of the value of the reference assets are not reported to the investors and those underlying factors which affect the value of the reference asset are not public.

Risk relating to premium and index figure

The relationship between the value of a structured Note and the performance of the reference assets or changes between them is not always linear but, rather, sometimes depends on the yield structure and an index figure which determines the extent to which the performance of the reference asset is reflected in the value of the Note. The index figure is set by the Issuing Banks and determined, among other things, by term to maturity, volatility, market interest rates and expected dividends on the reference asset. The amount that the investor risks is greater in those structured Notes that are subscribed for/purchased at a premium, i.e. when the investor pays more than the nominal amount, due to the risk that these might be redeemed only at the nominal amount. In certain Notes there are series called Trygg (Safety) and Chans (Chance) alternatives. In the Trygg alternative, with a lower index figure, the investor's only risk is that he will not receive any yield on the invested capital and commission. In the so-called Chans alternative, with a higher index figure, the investor risks also the premium, i.e. the price the investor must pay on the settlement date in addition to the nominal amount.

Intensity Price fluctuations, so called volatility

If, pursuant to the Final Terms, a note is designed to include variables such as multipliers or leverage factors, cap/floor, another combination of these variables or other similar elements, the market value of such Notes may be more volatile than the market value of a security without such elements.

Risks relating to market disruption and extraordinary events

Market disruption can occur, for example, if the trading in reference assets is suspended or an official price for some reason is not listed. In conjunction with market disruption, the value of reference assets is determined at a different time than intended and, in certain cases, also by another method than intended. Certain reference assets such as equities, equity baskets or fund units may be affected by extraordinary events such as delisting, nationalisation, bankruptcy (konkurs), liquidation (likvidation) or the equivalent or a share split, new share issue, bonus issue, issuance of warrants or convertibles, reverse share split or buyback in respect of such equity or equity basket which constitutes a reference asset. For all structured Notes, events such as changes in the law or increased costs for risk management may arise. If so, the Bank may, at its sole discretion, make any adjustments in the composition of the assets and the calculation of the yield or value of Notes or replace one reference asset with another reference asset, to the extent that the Bank deems necessary in order for the calculation of the yield or value of Notes to, in the Bank's opinion, reflect the manner in which yield or value was previously calculated. It may be that the Bank believes that such adjustments cannot procure a fair result, in which case the Bank may make the calculation of yield prematurely and determine the additional amount or the yield. Interest on the principal amount shall thereafter accrue at the market rate of interest. The Bank may make such amendments in the terms and conditions of the Notes as the Bank deems necessary in connection with such extraordinary events as may be stated in the General Terms or the Final Terms.

Reading of closing values of reference assets

In certain yield structures, the closing price is recorded on a number of occasions in order to calculate an average final price. The aim is to minimise the risk of single extreme values greatly affecting the final price. Investors should, however, appreciate the fact that the value on such recording occasions will affect the average final price, entailing that the final price may be lower or higher than the actual closing price on the valuation day. In some Notes however, the value is determined on the basis of a single valuation, hence, there is a risk that some extreme values could affect the final price.

Loss of redemption amount/Delivery obligation

If, according to the Final Terms, the redemption amount is dependent on the performance of one or more reference assets, investors risk losing the value of the entire investment or parts of it. Notes are written down to zero on the Redemption Date irrespective of whether the principal amount of the Notes is repaid in parts or, ultimately, not at all. If, according to the Final Terms, the redemption amount under certain circumstances may be replaced by an obligation to deliver equities, another reference asset or the equivalent thereof in cash, the value of such delivery or payment may be lower than the value of the original investment. Structured Notes may be linked to, for example, the development of a fund or of so called fund of funds. The liquidity of the shares in these funds can be limited as well as the number of occasions on which fund units can be redeemed during a year. Certain funds reserves the right to, under certain circumstances, close the fund for entry or exit. These circumstances can entail a risk that the redemption Notes linked to such fund is materially postponed or, in extraordinary circumstances, is not made at all.

Repurchase/Early Redemption

The Issuing Bank is entitled to redeem Notes early if the Final Terms contain a call option right, in which event the Notes may be redeemed prior to the agreed maturity date.

A right of the Issuing Bank to redeem Notes early may reduce the market value of Notes. During the period in which the Issuing Bank has such call option right, the market value of Notes will probably not exceed the amount for which Notes may be redeemed.

It can generally be expected that the Issuing Bank will exercise its right to redeem the Notes early when the Issuing Bank's refinancing costs for the Note are lower than the interest on the Notes. At such time, an investor generally does not have an opportunity to reinvest the redemption amount at an effective rate of interest matching the rate of interest or the yield under the Notes. Other reasons for early redemption can be that an applicable leverage threshold is breached or the occurrence of another agreed termination event,

Total cost

Costs are incurred by the Bank in connection with the issuance of structured Notes due to, among other things, production, distribution, licences, exchange listing and risk management. In order to cover these costs, the Bank charges brokerage fees and commissions. The amount of the commission may vary and is affected by the fluctuations in interest rates and the price of the financial instruments included in the product.

Investors should be aware that market participants have varying possibilities to influence the price of the financial instruments that may be embedded in a Note. Pricing of structured Notes are normally not made on marketable terms but is decided by the Issuing Bank. Hence, there may be a conflict of interest between the issuing bank and the Investors, to the extent the Issuing Bank is able to influence pricing, and has a possibility to make a gain or to avoid a loss, to the detriment of the Investors. The transparency relating to the pricing of Structured Notes may be limited.

Currency risks

When the reference asset is listed in a currency other than Swedish kronor (or, where applicable, in a currency other than Euro or Danish kronor), changes in the currency exchange rate may affect the yield on Notes. This does not apply to Notes which, pursuant to the terms and conditions, are expressly currency hedged, i.e. have a fixed exchange rate.

Alternative cost risks

The market risks vary depending on the note structure and the term to maturity for different Notes. The value of a Note varies with changes in market interest rates. A so-called structured Note often operates as a combination of an interest-bearing investment and, for example, an investment in equities. An investor thus takes an additional risk when investing in a structured Note if the alternative had been a pure interest-bearing investment. A structured Note generates no interest or other yield if the market performance is unfavourable and it is redeemable only at the nominal amount. If the Note is not principal protected, the entire invested amount may be lost. The investor in such a structured Note assumes an alternative risk corresponding to the interest that the investor would have received had the alternative been, instead, to invest the money in pure interest-bearing instruments. If the investor sells such Note prior to the expiry of the term to maturity, the investor bears the risk of receiving less than the nominal amount of the Note.

Specific Legal risks relating to certain Notes

In relation to Structured Notes it should be noted that any change in applicable laws or regulations or changes in the application thereof as well as specific events such as a moratorium, currency restriction, embargo, blockade or boycott of a central bank, the Swedish or Finnish government or other sovereign such as the United Nations or the European Union, may result in (i) a substitution of reference assets, (ii) a change in a method for calculation of certain amounts under the Note, (iii) that certain amounts are calculated at an earlier date, (iv) a change in the calculation of yield and/or (v) amendments of the Terms and Conditions or the Final Terms. Such event may therefore adversely affect the yield and other amounts that are payable to the investors under a Structured Note, as well as the timing of payments.

In the event that a change in laws or regulations or decisions by public authorities (or in the application thereof), or any other circumstance not directly related to a downgrading of the Issuing Bank's credit ratings, would (in the opinion of the Issuing Bank) result in an increase in certain costs related to Structured Note or increased costs for the Issuing Bank's risk management in relation to Structured Note, such event may entitle the Issuing Bank to (i) substitute reference assets, (ii) change a method for calculation of certain amounts under the Note, (iii) calculate certain amounts at an earlier date, (iv) change the calculation of yield and/or (v) amend the Terms and Conditions or the Final Terms.

Risks Relating to the Market

Secondary market and liquidity

There is no guarantee that a secondary market in Notes will develop and be maintained. In the absence of a secondary market, Notes may be difficult to sell at a satisfactory market price and the investor should be aware that he may realise a loss upon sale if Notes are sold prior to the redemption date. Even if a Note is registered or listed on an exchange, trading in the Note will not always take place. Thus, it may be difficult and costly for the Holder to sell the Note within a short time frame and it may be difficult for the holder to obtain a price that is equivalent to the price obtainable for securities that are traded in a liquid secondary market.

In addition, it should be noted that it may from time to time be difficult or impossible to dispose of the investment due to, for example, severe price fluctuations, the fact that relevant marketplaces are closed, or that restrictions on trading have been imposed during a certain period of time.

At the time of sale, the price may be higher or lower than on the settlement date due to market changes but also due to liquidity on the secondary market.

Clearing and settlement

Notes issued under the MTN Programme are linked to Euroclear Sweden , Euroclear Finland or VP, all of which are so called account-based book entry systems and, consequently, no physical securities will be issued. Clearing and settlement in connection with trading in Notes takes place in the VPC-system, the Euroclear Finland and the VP-system or such other clearing system set out in the Final Terms. Holders of Notes are dependant on the relevant clearing system in order to obtain payment under the Notes.

The Banks' discretion regarding the proceeds

The Banks are free to utilise the proceeds from issuance of Notes without any particular restrictions. The Banks do not represent or warrant that the utilisation of proceeds will result in or generate a maximum, or even a positive, result for the Banks or the Nordea Group.

NOTES – TERMS AND CONDITIONS AND STRUCTURE

The Banks have established the MTN Programme for the purpose of issuing Notes on the capital market in Swedish kronor or Euro with maturities ranging from 30 days up to perpetual maturity. The aggregate nominal amount of Notes outstanding from time to time will not exceed one hundred billion Swedish kronor (SEK 100,000,000,000) or the equivalent thereof in Euro. Notes will be issued in the form of dematerialised debt securities, so called Medium Term Notes. Notes in denominations of less than fifty thousand Euro (€50,000) may be issued under the MTN Programme, provided that NBF may not issue Notes in denominations of less than one thousand Euro (€1,000) or the equivalent thereof in SEK or other currency (and multiples thereof). The summary section on page 5-10 contains a summarised description of the MTN Programme in its entirety.

1. What is a Note?

Freely transferable debt instrument

Notes are freely transferable debt securities, often referred to as bonds. A Note manifests a debt owed by the relevant Issuing Bank to the investor and the investor is normally entitled to a cash payment from the Issuing Bank upon maturity (and sometime also interest payments during the term). Therefore, Notes differ from convertible debt instruments as investors in such instruments may under certain circumstances receive a physical delivery of shares instead of a payment on maturity. Once the Note has been issued and the investor in the Note has paid the issue price to the issuer the investor is generally entitled to receive payments from the issuer and will not owe any further obligation to make payments to the issuer.

Combination of instruments

The Banks may issue structured Notes pursuant to the MTN Programme. Structured Notes have - as mentioned in the section “Risks relating to specific types of Notes” on page 20 above and under the heading “Different types of Notes” below - developed in recent years and did not exist in the early bond markets. In terms of structure and economics, a structured Note often operates as a combination of different types of more traditional instruments, e.g. a bond combined with a share, a fund unit or a derivative instrument. The product may be composed of and resemble several instruments. However, all structured Notes constitute a claim of the investor towards the issuer pursuant to which the investor, subject to the terms of the Notes, is entitled to receive a cash payment from the issuer (or in limited cases where specifically stated in the terms and conditions, to a physical delivery of a reference asset). In this context it is important to note that, if the Note is composed of a derivative element, the so called counterparty risk in the derivative instrument remains with the Issuing Bank. However the market risk is transferred to the investor.

Principal protected or not

The Terms and Conditions of Notes issued provide that the Issuing Bank may issue “non-principal protected” Notes, meaning Notes under which the investor stands the risk of losing all or part of his investment in the event of a negative performance in the reference asset. A Note where the terms of which are such that the investor is always entitled to receive a nominal amount (or a certain minimum amount) are normally referred to as “principal protected” Notes. It shall be noted however that the investor risk losing his investment also where he invests in a principal protected Note, since repayment of the investment is dependent on that the Issuing Bank has sufficient assets to perform its payment obligations. The principal protection thus only mean that the investor is entitled to receive repayment of a certain minimum amount on the redemption date irrespective of the performance in the relevant reference asset of the Note. Further information with respect to different types of reference assets for structured Notes is provided under the heading “Different types of Notes” below.

Listing

Notes are often listed for trading on any of the stock exchanges or other marketplace as further specified in this Base Prospectus; however, certain Notes may be tailored specifically to suit a particular investor or group of investors that seek exposure to a specific risk or market. Such Notes will normally not be intended for public trading or frequent transfer, although the Notes as such will be a freely transferable instrument. Further information with respect to secondary market trading is provided in the section “Risk factors” on pages 11-25 above.

2. Terms and Conditions – Final Terms

Terms and Conditions

The MTN Programme is one of the Banks' platforms for borrowings in the debt capital markets and is primarily intended to be used for issuance in Sweden, Finland and Denmark. The MTN Programme constitutes an efficient platform to relatively frequent and quickly raise capital in the aforementioned markets. One of the most important features of the MTN Programme is the Terms and Conditions, set out in their entirety in this Base Prospectus, as these apply to all Notes issued pursuant to the MTN Programme. The Terms and Conditions are standardised and general in nature and are intended to cover a large number of different types of Notes. The Terms and Conditions are therefore relatively extensive and complicated.

Final Terms

Final Terms are prepared for each series of Notes. A form of Final Terms is set out in this Base Prospectus (as an appendix to the Terms and Conditions). The Final Terms specifies the terms and conditions for each series of Notes and constitute the full terms and conditions for the relevant series of Notes when applied together with the together with the Terms and Conditions. Thus, the Final Terms must always be read together with the Terms and Conditions in order to obtain a complete understanding of the terms and conditions applicable to a specific Note. The Final Terms often, where deemed necessary, contain a reference to such parts of the General Terms that are applicable to the particular series of Notes, as well as any supplementary terms and conditions that are not set out in the Terms and Conditions. The Final Terms will specify, among other things, the nominal amount, denomination, type of note and method of calculation of yield or interest under the specific series of Notes.

Final Terms for Notes which are offered to the public or otherwise admitted to trading on an exchange are filed with the Swedish Financial Supervisory Authority. Final Terms that are filed accordingly will be published and made available on the Banks' website (www.nordea.com) and may also be obtained free of charge from any of the Banks' branch offices.

3. Different types of Notes

As described above, a Note represents a right to demand and receive a certain performance from the relevant Issuing Bank, normally in the form of a cash payment or, in limited cases, by delivery of other assets (so called performance in kind). A Note is usually interest bearing or carries another form of yield. Notes where the redemption amount or the yield is linked to and determined on the basis of a reference asset are often referred to as structured Notes (see further below). The interest or other yield under a structured Note is often variable and not guaranteed and, where also the redemption amount is linked to the reference asset, the investor may under certain structured Notes bear the risk of losing a significant part of the investment (or the entire investment) in certain cases of negative performance in the reference asset.

This section contains a presentation of the main types of Notes that the Banks intend to issue pursuant to the MTN Programme and the most common types of reference assets. The two main types of Notes, coupon and zero coupon Notes, are presented immediately below.

Coupon and zero coupon Notes

Coupon notes pay interest and/or yield on a continuing basis during the term of the note or, alternatively, on the conditions specified for the note.

Zero coupon notes are non interest bearing. These notes are normally issued at a discount, i.e. the Issuing Bank receives an amount on the issue date which is lower than the nominal amount of the note and pays the nominal amount on the redemption date or, alternatively, the Issuing Bank receives the nominal amount for the note on issue and pays the nominal amount plus accrued interest on the redemption date.

Notes may be issued as coupon notes or as zero coupon notes or as a combination of both. Structured Notes under which the redemption amount is linked to the performance of various types of reference assets may or may not provide for payment of interest or other yield on a continuing basis.

Amortising Notes

The Banks may issue amortising Notes, being Notes where the principal amount is repaid in instalments.

Interest bearing Notes

Interest-bearing Notes typically accrue a fixed, floating or variable interest. A floating rate of interest is often composed of a variable interest base rate such as STIBOR (Stockholm Interbank Offered Rate) plus or minus a fixed interest margin; instruments with floating interest rates are frequently referred to as floating rate notes, whereas under Notes with fixed interest the rate of interest is fixed. Under a Note with inverse floating interest, there may be a fixed rate of interest less a rate of interest based on a reference rate such as STIBOR. The interest may be adjustable and adjusted after each interest period. There are also Notes where the interest structure is changed during the term to maturity. For example, a fixed rate may be paid initially but the interest may subsequently change to a floating rate; or the interest may, for example, be increased after a certain period of time, referred to as interest step-up.

Structured Notes may be interest based in the sense that they are structured with a yield based on a rate of interest and/or change in interest rate. Under range bonds, the yield depends on a whether a specified interest or interest index moves within certain predetermined ranges. The structure of such Notes may include multipliers, leverage factors, cap/floor and/or combinations thereof. Structured interest based Notes are further addressed under yield and redemption structures below.

Inflation-linked Notes

Inflation protected Notes are notes with or without an inflation-protected rate of interest and with an inflation-protected redemption amount. The rate of interest may be fixed or floating. If Notes are not interest-bearing, an inflation-protected redemption amount is paid only upon maturity. The calculation of inflation protection is based on the consumer price index. Such index is comprised of statistics that do not necessarily reflect the actual inflation exposure of the individual investor. The inflation-protected interest amount as well as the inflation-protected principal amount are notified to the investors upon determination of those amounts by the Issuing Bank in accordance with the Terms and Conditions.

Equity-linked Notes

Under an equity-linked Note, the yield and/or redemption amount depend on the performance of one or more equities, equity indices or baskets of equities, and/or equity indices or equity markets. The risk exposure under an equity-linked Note may be directed at certain markets or certain industries. There may be Notes where the underlying index or equity/equities relate to companies with a certain credit rating, as well as Notes where the reference assets are units in private equity funds or shares in venture capital companies. The risk focus of each specific series of equity-linked Notes will be clearly stated in the Final Terms.

An equity-linked Note may (but does not always) provide for a minimum predetermined yield, normally in the form of interest, in addition to the equity-linked yield. The Issuing Bank may structure an equity-linked Note so that the yield increases or decreases depending on the movements in the relevant equity instrument or index during the term.

Equity-linked Notes may have a variable degree of exposure to the reference asset. The Notes may be issued at a premium which is lost, or the right to repayment of an invested amount may be lost in whole or in part, if the reference asset performs disadvantageously for the investor or in relation to a relevant comparison figure (and vice versa if the performance of the reference asset is positive). Alternatively, there may be a more limited link to the value of the reference asset, and thus a lower exposure to the relevant equity. For example, there are Notes which pay a predetermined minimum yield despite that the reference asset performs negatively. However, such Notes generally provide a more limited yield in a scenario where the reference asset performs well, as compared to Notes without minimum yield.

Reverse convertible Notes

In a reverse convertible Note, the reference asset is normally composed of a share share index or a basket of shares or indices. Repayment of the principal amount in cash may, under certain conditions, be replaced by an obligation of the issuer to deliver shares or the value of the shares in cash. A reverse convertible Note may include a fixed yield element.

Credit-linked Notes

Credit linked notes (CLN) are notes where the right to receive interest and/or the redemption amount is linked to certain reference credits or credit indices. The interest and/or redemption amount depend on whether a so-called “credit event” occurs during to term of the note (as further described below). The reference credits may be credits or baskets of credits related to specified companies or sovereigns such as governments, municipalities county councils, or credit indices. The reference credits may consist of existing, future, conditional or unconditional payment obligations under debt instruments, e.g. loan- or credit agreements, bonds or commercial paper (irrespective of term to maturity), financing commitments, payment obligations in respect of deposits, letters of credit, guarantee or surety commitments or other undertakings in respect of the payment obligations of a third party.

The interest and/or the redemption amount under a credit-linked Note may thus depend on the credit risk associated with one or more companies, i.e. the companies which are obliged to perform under the relevant reference credits (the so-called reference entities). Credit-linked Notes are often issued and priced on the basis of the credit ratings of the reference credits or reference entities. The rate of interest on the Notes is higher the lower the credit rating of the reference asset/entity. The higher interest on the Notes is intended to compensate for the higher risk associated with a low rating of the reference asset/entity, i.e. an increased likelihood that a credit event may occur. A credit event normally consist of payment default, bankruptcy (konkurs) or other insolvency related proceeding or other event that would typically affect the likelihood of a creditor to receive repayment in full pursuant to the terms and conditions of the reference credit. A credit event may result in that the investor loses the right to receive interest and/or the redemption amount (in full or in part) on the Notes. Some credit-linked Notes are structured so that the interest and/or redemption amount is determined only on the basis of the first credit event, while other structures may take several credit events into account and gradually reduce the yield/redemption amount. The relevant reference credits as well as the reference entities and the credit risk associated with those will be clearly stated in the Final Terms of each series of credit-linked Notes.

Credit-linked Notes may be issued in several tranches, all of which relate to the same reference assets. The tranches would then generally have different ranking and risk so that credit events are allocated towards the tranches in their order of seniority (i.e. the lowest ranking would bear the first losses etc).

Fund-linked Notes

Under a fund-linked Note, the yield and/or the redemption amount depends on the performance of one or more funds, including hedge funds, so-called fund of funds (a fund of funds is a fund which invests in one or more funds), fund indices or baskets of funds. The funds may be Swedish or foreign and managed by well-known or less well known fund managers. Some of the funds are approved by and subject to the supervision of the Swedish Financial Supervisory Authority and are so called UCITS funds or so-called special funds in accordance with the Swedish Act on Investment Funds (2004:46) whereas other funds have not been approved by (and thus not under supervision of) the Swedish Financial Supervisory Authority. The funds may be organised as mutual funds or in corporate form. Examples of funds that are often organised in corporate form are the private equity funds, hedge funds and/or fund of funds. Not all funds are subject to investor protection rules similar to those that apply to mutual funds under Swedish law. Funds and fund of funds have different types of investment strategies and different risk levels and a fund index may relate to a number of different funds. The investment scope and strategy of the individual funds and other material information will be clearly stated in the Final Terms. Further, it is important to note that the fund rules of many funds or funds of funds provide various restrictions with respect to redemption of fund units, e.g. it may be possible to redeem units only on a limited number of times during a year or in a minimum or maximum amount and there may be circumstances under which redemption is closed entirely. Further it is important to note that in certain funds or funds of funds the liquidity might be limited or non existent. Such liquidity restrictions are generally mirrored in the fund-linked Notes and are therefore relevant to the investor in the Notes as they may result in delayed (or cancelled) redemption of the Notes.

Commodity-linked Notes

In a commodity-linked Note the yield or redemption amount depends on the value of one or more commodities, a commodities index or a basket of commodities and/or commodities indices, or a relevant comparison figure for the reference asset. Commodities that may be used as reference assets are electricity, oil, gold, emission rights, aluminium, copper and zinc.

Currency-linked Notes

In a currency-linked Note the yield or redemption amount depends on the value of one or more currencies or baskets thereof, or a relevant comparison figure for the underlying currency and/or rates of exchange of one or more currencies in relation to each other. The value of one or more currencies or relevant exchange rates may be determined by reference to spot or forward rates and may be generated from official sources such as the European Central Bank's fixing or similar, but also by reference to private trades on the currency market or on the basis of quotes from a number of independent banks.

Index-linked Notes

In an index-linked Note the yield and/or redemption amount depends on the performance of one or more indices or baskets of indices. The risk exposure under an index-linked Note may be directed at certain markets, industries or certain types of assets. Examples of indices which may be relevant include property indices, commodities indices and indices for other types of assets. The focus for any individual Note will be clearly stated in the Final Terms.

Mixed portfolio Notes

In a mixed portfolio Note the yield and/or redemption amount is linked to the performance of a number of portfolios which contain different types of assets. The assets in a portfolio or the different portfolios may be assigned different weights and will thereby influence the yield and/or redemption amount according to their respective weight. The types of assets may, for example, be equities, currencies, interest rates and commodities (different asset types can form part of the same portfolio and there may be several portfolios with different types of assets that are compared against each other).

4. The performance structure – a description

The performance structures described below determine the manner in which the performance of the relevant reference assets (as described for each type of Notes in section 3 above) affects the yield and/or the redemption amount under the Notes. The performance structures set forth below may be applied to several of the aforementioned types of Notes, so called “structured Notes”. Structured Notes may, in many cases, correspond in terms of risk and functionality to combinations of several types of traditional instruments, e.g. a bond combined with a share, a fund unit and/or a derivative instrument. The value of a structured Note will be affected by the value of the reference asset or relevant comparison figure. The value of the reference asset is sometimes determined at a number of occasions during the term of the Notes and sometime only at maturity. The performance may be positive or negative for the investor. Thus, the investor's right to yield and, where applicable, payment of the redemption amount is a function of the performance of the reference asset and the applicable performance structure. Investors will be notified of the relevant performance as well as yield and redemption amount in accordance with the Terms and Conditions and Final Terms of the relevant Notes.

The performance structures described below represent a selection of the most common structures. The structures may be combined, varied and used in their entirety or only in part. Other performance structures may also be applied, in which case the structure will be described in greater detail in the Final Terms for the relevant Notes.

The basic method for calculation of performance under a structured Note compares the change between the initial price and the final price of one or more reference assets (below referred to as the “base structure”). In order to mitigate the impact of temporary value fluctuations in the reference asset the performance of the reference asset is often determined on the basis of an average value during the term of the Notes (i.e. there several valuation times). In some Notes however, the value is determined on the basis of a single valuation.

"Best of" structure

The "best of" structure is based on the base structure but includes a minimum yield, i.e. a floor for the yield. The investor receives either the minimum yield or a yield which reflects an increase in value of the reference asset, whichever is greater. When the change in value of the reference asset would result in a yield which is less than the predetermined minimum yield, the investor receives an amount corresponding to the minimum yield.

"Max" structure

The “max” structure is based on the base structure but contains a predetermined maximum yield, i.e. a cap on the yield. The investor receives either the maximum yield or a yield which reflects an increase in value of the reference asset, whichever is lower. If the change in value of the reference asset would result in a yield which exceeds the predetermined maximum yield, the investor receives an amount corresponding to the maximum yield.

"Barrier" structure

This structure provides for a deemed fixed price on the reference asset which replaces the actual final price if the final price on the reference asset reaches and/or exceeds a price cap or is less than a price floor.

"Cliquet" structure

A "cliquet" structure consists of the aggregate of a number of sub-yields for specified time periods during the term. Each time period may also have an upper or lower limit in respect of the proportion of sub-yield which is taken into consideration for the purpose of calculating the final total yield on the Notes.

"Reverse Cliquet" structure

The performance in a reverse cliquet structure consists of a predetermined yield less the total of any negative sub-yields for specified time periods during the term.

Cumulative structure

In a cumulative structure, the value of the Notes is calculated on the basis of a number of sub-yields for specified time periods which are multiplied on a number of occasions during the term. Each time period may also have an upper or lower limit as to the proportion of the sub-yield which is taken into consideration for the purpose of calculating the final total yield on the Notes.

"Digital" structure

The yield on a digital structure Note depends on the value of a reference asset on the closing day in relation to a predetermined value.

"Binary" structure

The yield in a binary structure depends on the relationship between the value of a reference asset and a predetermined value during the entire term of the Notes.

"Portfolio" structure

The yield in a portfolio structure Note comprises the average value during one or several specified time periods of the single best performing, or several of the best performing reference assets in a basket of several reference assets. The best performing reference asset(s) may be removed from the basket at the end of each time period.

"Rainbow" structure

In a rainbow structure, each reference asset is assigned a predetermined asset share value on each valuation date based on the performance of that reference asset, that is, the reference asset with the most favourable development in is designated a predetermined value and so forth. This structure is combined with one of the other structures.

"Range Accrual" structure

In a "range accrual" structure the yield on the Notes is a function of the number of days that the rate or the value of the reference asset is within a predetermined rate/value interval.

"Swing" structure

In a "swing" structure the yield on the Notes is determined by the reference asset with the lowest increase in value during the term.

"Fixed best" structure

In a "fixed best" structure, the final price of the reference asset which performed best is replaced by a predetermined value for the purpose of calculating the yield of the Notes.

"Out performance" structure

In an "out performance" structure, the yield on the Notes is linked to the difference in performance between two or more reference assets. The performance of the reference asset may be determined by way of reference to the base structure or in another manner. The reference assets to be compared may stay the same or vary during the term of the Notes and the structure may assign different weights to the reference assets and those weights may also change during the term. If the comparison takes place continuously or on several occasions during the term of the Notes, the performance may be locked in during the term.

"CPPI" (Constant Proportion Portfolio Insurance) and "VPPI" (Variable Proportion Portfolio Insurance)

CPPI and VPPI respectively offer an investment with total or partial protection of principal. Continuous adjustment of the exposure to the reference risk assets in the underlying portfolio such that the underlying portfolio can absorb a certain decrease in value before the value of the underlying portfolio falls below a certain predetermined value and therefore the risk that are embedded in the product is minimised. The value referred to may for example, be a value which is linked to the present value of the principal protection. The reduction in value which the underlying portfolio can absorb is often referred to as the CPPI/VPPI "cushion".

The size of the exposure to the risk asset is determined from time to time by a multiplier. In practice, the stipulated exposure to the risk asset is equal to the CPPI/VPPI cushion multiplied by the multiplier. The degree of linkage between the exposure against the risk asset vis-à-vis the product of the CPPI/VPPI cushion and the multiplier may, however, vary from product to product. For example, the exposure to the risk asset may be allowed to deviate to a greater or lesser degree from the product of the CPPI/VPPI cushion and the multiplier without the underlying portfolio being adjusted. If the multiplier is constant over time, the product is referred to as CPPI; if the multiplier can vary over time, the product is referred to as VPPI. In a VPPI the multiplier may, for example, be a function of the characteristics of the risk assets, e.g. volatility. In addition to the risk assets, the underlying portfolios may comprise loans or cash.

The flexibility of a CPPI allows for a high degree of variation in the choice of reference assets. The reference portfolio may contain a mix of several types of assets.

"Simple Leverage" structure

Under a simple leverage structure there is no adjustment of the degree of exposure to the reference asset. The value of the Notes is therefore a direct function of the value of the reference portfolio from time to time less the leverage amount. A simple leverage structure is often combined with an option for the Issuing Bank to redeem the Notes prior to its stated maturity if the value of the reference portfolio falls below a predetermined lowest level. The amount that the investor is entitled to receive may fall below the predetermined lowest level.

"Constant Leverage" structure

A constant leverage structure is a structure where the exposure against the reference risk asset is continuously adjusted in order to achieve a permanent leverage. The mechanics behind the adjustment of the risk exposure are similar to those in a CPPI. The value of the reference portfolio is a direct function of the current determined exposure towards the reference asset less the current leverage amount. A "constant leverage" structure is often combined with an option for the Issuing Bank to redeem the Notes prior to its stated maturity if the value of the reference portfolio falls below a certain predetermined floor.

"Delta 1" structure

Under a "Delta 1" structure the investor in the Notes receives the current value of the reference asset on the redemption date. In this type of structure the investor is fully exposed to the performance of the underlying reference asset and the Note is not capital protected.

5. Other factors which may affect the redemption amount or yield under a Note

The different types of Notes and the performance structures described above may be combined with one or several of the variables described below. These variables may affect the investor's risk and the yield and/or the redemption amount under the Notes.

Absolute figures or percentage changes

The reference figures which may form part of the performance structures described above for determining performance may be an absolute figure or be expressed as a percentage.

Principal protection or not

The Terms and Conditions allows for issuance of Notes which are structured so that the investor may lose the entire investment or be entitled to recover a small portion of the original investment if the reference asset performs to the disadvantage of the investor. A Note under which the investor is entitled to receive at least the principal amount of the Note on maturity regardless of the performance of the reference asset is a "principal protected" (or "capital protected") Note. Whether a Note has capital protection or not will be clearly stated in the Final Terms.

Certain structures may allow for capital protection exceeding the principal amount of the Notes through positive changes in value being locked in on one or more occasions during the term. This will be clearly stated and is described in greater detail in the Final Terms.

Notes with adjustable interest payment and Redemption Dates

The Issuing Bank may under certain conditions have the right to change (delay) the interest payment and repayment of principal on the Notes, e.g. if liquidity in a certain reference asset is too low. If so, this is clearly stated in the Final Terms.

Early redemption

In a Note with an early redemption feature the Issuing Bank is entitled to redeem the Note before the stated maturity date if the price of a reference asset during the term reaches a certain predetermined level (referred to as a call option) or for other reasons. In certain cases, a predetermined early redemption amount may be specified. There are also structures which allow the investors to demand redemption of the Note prior to maturity, for example in order to lock in and realise a positive performance in the reference asset (referred to as a put option). The existence of a call or put option will be clearly stated in the Final Terms.

Index ratio

The structure of the Notes may contain an index ratio which is used to determine the exposure to the respective reference asset, i.e. the proportion of the change in value which accrues to the investor in each individual Note. The index ratio is set by the Issuing Bank and is determined by, among other things, the term, volatility, market interest rate and expected return on the reference asset.

Premium or discount

Notes may be issued at a premium or discount, which means that the investor pays on issue an amount that is higher or lower than the principal amount of the Notes. Zero coupon Notes are frequently issued at a discount. Structured Notes are often issued at a premium and the premium can be considered as the fee that the investor pays for being entitled to receive a comparatively larger part of a positive performance of the reference asset. The difference between the paid amount and the Notes' principal amount (the premium) is never covered by the capital protection in a Note.

Multiplies and leverage effects

In certain structured Notes a multiplier is included against which the performance of the reference asset is multiplied, thereby significantly increasing the portion of the change in value which may be credited to the investor in a Note (in the above-mentioned CPPI structure, there may be multiplier in the range of 4-5). A high multiplier often entails that the Note is issued at a higher premium. The multiplier will result in a more rapid loss of invested capital in the event of a negative performance of the reference asset. Notes with multiplier always provide a floor so that a negative performance in the reference asset cannot result in that the value of the Notes becomes negative.

"Leverage"

Leveraged structures offer a higher exposure to the reference asset than the amount of the invested capital would otherwise allow. The leverage is often created by synthetically borrowing against the underlying portfolio of reference assets. The leverage can sometimes vary over time according to a predefined mechanism. Such mechanism may serve the purpose of keeping the leverage and/or the exposure to the reference assets within certain limits.

Currency factor

If the currency of the reference asset differs from the currency of the Notes, investors may be exposed to a currency risk relating to the exchange rate between the currency of the Notes and the currency of the reference asset.

Dual currency Notes may be issued under the MTN Programme. For dual currency Notes, payment of principal, interest, yield and redemption amounts may take place in different currencies.

"Rebalancing"

Rebalancing is a continuous adjustment of the relationship between the exposure under a risk asset and invested principal. The rebalancing mechanics will, if applicable, be described in greater detail in the Final Terms.

a) Interest - Fixed Rate

Interest accrued during each Interest Period will be payable in arrear on the relevant Interest Payment Date and shall be calculated on a 30/360 day basis if the Notes are denominated in SEK and on the actual basis/actual basis if the Notes are denominated in EUR, or in accordance with such other calculation principle as applies with respect to the relevant Interest Base Rate.

Unless otherwise specified in the Final Terms, the Business Day Convention stated in section 8.7 below shall apply to Notes that bear fixed interest.

b) Interest - Rate adjustment

The Notes shall bear interest at the Interest Rate from but excluding the Issue Date to and including the Redemption Date. The Interest Rate shall be adjusted periodically and notified to the Holders through Euroclear Sweden.

Interest accrued during each Interest Period shall be paid in arrear on the relevant Interest Payment Date and shall be calculated on a 30/360 day basis if the Notes are denominated in SEK and on the actual number of days if the Notes are denominated in EUR, or in accordance with such other calculation principle as applies with respect to the relevant Interest Base Rate.

Unless otherwise specified in the Final Terms, the Business Day Convention stated in section 8.7 below shall apply to Notes that are subject to rate adjustment.

c) Interest - FRNs (Floating Rate Notes)

The Notes shall bear interest from but excluding the Issue Date up to and including the Redemption Date. The Rate of Interest applicable to each Interest Period shall be determined by the Issuing Agent (or, where applicable, the Administrator) or the Issuing Bank on the relevant Interest Determination Date as the sum of the Interest Base Rate and the Interest Margin for the relevant period. The Interest Base Rate for each Interest Period shall be notified to the Holders through Euroclear Sweden.

Interest for each Interest Period is paid in arrear on the relevant Interest Payment Date and is calculated on the actual number of days/360 basis if the Notes are denominated in SEK or EUR, or in accordance with such other calculation principle as applies with respect to the relevant Interest Base Rate.

Unless otherwise specified in the Final Terms, the Business Day Convention stated in section 8.7 below shall apply to FRN.

d) Interest - Inflation-Linked

The Notes shall bear Inflation Protected Interest from but excluding the Issue Date to and including the Redemption Date. The Interest Rate may be fixed or floating and shall be calculated and published in the manner stated in a) and c) above respectively. The amount of Inflation-Linked Interest for each Interest Period shall be notified to the Holders through Euroclear Sweden, as soon as such amount is determined by the Issuing Bank.

Unless otherwise specified in the Final Terms, the Business Day Convention specified in section 8.7 below shall apply to Notes that bear Inflation-Linked Interest.

e) Zero coupon

The Notes shall not bear interest and are zero coupon notes. Zero coupon Notes may be issued at a discount and redeemed at their nominal amount. Alternatively, zero coupon Notes may be issued at their nominal amount and accrue interest/yield which shall be paid on the Redemption Date.

Unless otherwise stated in the Final Terms, the Business Day Convention specified in section 8.7 below shall apply to zero coupon Notes.

f) Structured Notes

The yield shall relate to the Performance of one or more Reference Assets.

The yield may be paid regularly during the term of the Notes, in arrear on each Interest Payment Date, and be calculated for each Yield Period on a 30/360 day basis if the Notes are denominated in SEK and on the actual number of days/actual number of days basis if the Notes are denominated in EUR, or in accordance with such other calculation principle as applies for the relevant Performance and as specified in the Final Terms.

The Notes may be structured as zero coupon Notes with no regular payments of yield during the term, in which case the Performance of the Reference Assets will be reflected in the Redemption Amount.

The Issuing Bank (or its designee for such purpose) shall, where applicable, upon determination by the Issuing Bank of the yield notify the yield to the Holders in writing or as otherwise set out in the Final Term.

Unless otherwise set out in the Final Terms, the Business Day Convention stated in section 8.7 below shall apply to Structured Notes.

- 4.2 The Final Terms may contain terms whereby the yield under the Notes shall be increased after a certain period of time (Interest Step-up).
- 4.3 The Issuing Bank may structure Notes by using the above interest and yield structures in whole or in part and may combine two or more of the above interest and yield structures in whole or in part. Such combined structures shall not be regarded as new interest or yield structures.
- 4.4 Interest on interest bearing Notes shall bear interest on the outstanding Principal Amount.
- 4.5 If an interest rate cannot be determined due to an event referred to in the first paragraph of section 19, interest shall continue to accrue on the Notes at the rate applicable to the then current Interest Period. The Issuing Agent (or, where applicable, the Administrator) or the Issuing Bank shall as soon as the relevant event has ceased, calculate the new interest rate which shall apply from the second Business Day after the date of calculation until the expiry of the then current Interest Period.
- 4.6 The Issuing Bank may appoint another person or entity to perform calculations pursuant to these terms and conditions.

Section 5 Terms and conditions applicable only to Structured Notes

- (a) Where, in the Issuing Bank's opinion, as a consequence of any changes in any law, ordinance, regulation or equivalent or decision by a public authority or any change in the application thereof, or if a decree of moratorium, currency restriction, embargo, blockade or boycott of a central bank, the Swedish or Finnish government or other public authority such as the United Nations or the European Union, it would be unlawful, significantly more difficult or cause significant reputational damage to the Issuing Bank to issue and to hold Structured Notes, or if it becomes unlawful or more difficult for the Issuing Bank or a third party or cause significant reputational damage to the Issuing Bank to hold, acquire or divest Reference Assets or to enter into derivative transactions with respect to a Reference Asset, which may be entered into to hedge the Issuing Bank's exposure under the Notes, the Issuing Bank may determine that the Affected Reference Asset shall be replaced by a Replacement Reference Asset, or alternatively adjust the calculation of the Additional Amount.
- (b) Where the Issuing Bank determines that it would not provide a reasonable result to replace the Affected Reference Asset or to adjust the applicable calculation, the Issuing Bank may perform an early calculation of the Additional Amount and/or the yield. Such calculation shall be based on the most recently published value of the Reference Asset. When the Issuing Bank has determined the Additional Amount and/or the yield, the Issuing Bank shall notify the Holders of the amount of the Additional Amount and/or the yield and the rate of interest which shall continue to accrue on the Notes, which shall be market rate. The Redemption Amount (including accrued interest, if applicable) shall be paid on the Redemption Date.

Asset shall be replaced by a Replacement Reference Asset or alternatively adjust the calculation of the Additional Amount.

- (b) Where the Issuing Bank believes that it would not provide a commercially reasonable result to replace the Affected Reference Asset or to adjust the applicable calculation, the Issuing Bank may perform an early calculation of the Additional Amount and/or the yield. Such early calculation shall be based on the most recently published value of the Reference Asset. When the Issuing Bank has determined the Additional Amount and/or the yield, the Issuing Bank shall notify the Holders of the amount of the Additional Amount and/or the yield and the rate of interest which shall continue to accrue on the Notes, which shall be market rate.. The Redemption Amount (including accrued interest, if applicable) shall be paid on the Redemption Date.

Hedging Disruption

The following terms and conditions shall apply to all Structured Notes:

If the Issuing Bank believes it would not provide a fair result to replace the Affected Reference Asset or to adjust the applicable calculation, the Issuing Bank may perform an early calculation of the Additional Amount and/or the yield. When the Issuing Bank has determined the Additional Amount and/or the yield, the Issuing Bank shall notify the Holders of the Additional Amount and/or the amount of the yield and at which rate of interest which shall continue to accrue on the Notes, which shall be market rate. . The Redemption Amount (including accrued interest, if applicable) shall be paid on the Redemption Date.

The calculation shall be based on the closing quotation or such other Reference Interest Rate or Reference Yield as stated in the Final Terms.

t = the remaining term of the Notes, expressed as a number of days divided by 360 (whereby each month shall be deemed to consist of 30 days) or based on the actual number of days/actual number of days.

- (a) Where, in the opinion of the Issuing Bank, the compilation, calculation or publication of any Reference Asset ceases in whole or in part, or the characteristics of the Reference Assets are changed significantly, the Issuing Bank shall be entitled, upon calculation of the Performance, to replace such Affected Reference Asset with a comparable alternative. Where, in the Issuing Bank's opinion, a comparable alternative to such Affected Reference Asset is not compiled, calculated and published or where, in the opinion of the Issuing Bank, the method of calculating any Affected Reference Asset or the value thereof is changed significantly, the Issuing Bank shall be entitled to make such adjustments in the calculation as the Issuing Bank, based reasonable grounds deems necessary, in order for the calculation of the value of the Affected Reference Asset to reflect and be based on the manner in which such was previously compiled, calculated and published. The value thereby calculated shall replace the value of the Affected Reference Asset in calculations of the Performance.

- (b) Where the Issuing Bank believes that it would not provide a fair result to replace the Affected Reference Asset or adjust the applicable calculation, the Issuing Bank may perform an early calculation of the Additional Amount and/or the yield and determine the Additional Amount and/or the yield. Such calculation shall be based on the most recently published value of the Reference Asset. When the Issuing Bank has determined the Additional Amount and/or the yield, the Issuing Bank shall notify the Holders of the amount of the Additional Amount and/or the yield and the rate of interest which will continue to accrue on the Notes. The Issuing Bank shall pay market interest on the Principal Amount. The Redemption Amount (including accrued interest, if any) shall be paid on the Redemption Date.

Correction Commodity

The following provisions will apply if stated in the Final Terms and Correction Commodity should be considered for Commodity Notes.

Where the official closing price for a Reference Asset is corrected within 30 days of the original publication and such a price is used to determine a Initial Price, Final Price and/or Closing Price, the Issuing Bank shall be entitled to make a corresponding correction.

Assets, or to replace the Affected Reference Asset with a Replacement Reference Asset which the Issuing Bank thereby deems necessary in order to achieve a calculation of Performance which reflects, and is based on, the manner in which such was previously calculated.

- (b) Where the Issuing Bank believes that it would not provide a fair result to replace the Affected Reference Asset or adjust the applicable calculation or the structure of the Reference Asset, the Issuing Bank may perform an early calculation of the Additional Amount and/or the yield and determine Additional Amount and/or the yield. Such early calculation shall be based on the most recently published value for the Reference Asset. The Issuing Bank shall pay market interest on the Principal Amount. The Redemption Amount (including accrued interest, if applicable) shall be paid on the Redemption Date.

Council Directive 2003/48/EC of 3 June 2003 on taxation of income from savings in the form of interest payments

Under EC Council Directive 2003/48/EC on the taxation of savings income (the "EU Savings Directive"), which has been implemented in Sweden, Finland and Denmark each Member State is from, 1 July 2005, required to provide to the tax authorities of another Member State details of payments of interest or other similar income paid by a person within its jurisdiction to, or collected by such a person for, an individual resident or certain limited types of entity established in that other Member State; however, for a transitional period, Austria, Belgium and Luxembourg may instead apply a withholding system in relation to such payments, deducting tax at rates rising over time to 35%. The transitional period is to terminate at the end of the first full fiscal year following agreement by certain non-EU countries to the exchange of information relating to such payments. Belgium has replaced this withholding tax with a regime of exchange of information to the Member State of residence as from 1 January 2010

A number of non-EU countries, and certain dependent or associated territories of certain Member States, have adopted similar measures (either provision of information or transitional withholding) in relation to payments made by a person within its jurisdiction to, or collected by such a person for, an individual resident or certain limited types of entity established in a Member State. In addition, the Member States have entered into provision of information or transitional withholding arrangements with certain of those dependent or associated territories in relation to payments made by a person in a Member State to, or collected by such a person for, an individual resident or certain limited types of entity established in one of those territories.

On November 13, 2008 the European Commission published a proposal for amendments to the EU Savings Directive, which included a number of suggested changes which, if implemented, would broaden the scope of the requirements described above. The European Parliament approved an amended version of this proposal on 24 April 2009. Investors who are in any doubt as to their position should consult their professional advisers.

THE NORDEA GROUP

Overview

The Nordea Group (Nordea Bank AB (publ) (“NBAB”) and its subsidiaries) is a financial group in the Nordic region , with additional operations in the Baltic Sea region in Poland, Russia, Estonia, Latvia, Lithuania, Luxembourg, as well as in a number of international locations (below the "Nordea Group", the "Group" or "Nordea"). The Nordea Group's parent company, NBAB, is a Swedish limited liability company incorporated under Swedish law. NBAB's shares are listed and traded on the Stockholm, Copenhagen and Helsinki Stock exchanges.

The Nordea Group's head office is located in Stockholm at Smålandsgatan 17, SE-105 71 Stockholm, Sweden.

As at 31 December 2009, the Nordea Group's assets totalled EUR 507.5 billion and Tier 1 Capital of EUR 19.6 billion. As of the same date, the Nordea Group had approximately 10 million customers across the markets in which it operates, of which approximately 7.5 million are household customers in customer programmes and 0.7 million are active corporate customers.

As at 31 December 2009, the Nordea Group had approximately 1,400 branches of which more than 270 are located in Russia, Poland, Lithuania, Latvia and Estonia (together referred to as the “New European Markets”). In addition, the Group has a very large number of telephone and Internet customers. The Nordea Group is very active within e-based financial services and, at the end of 2009, had approximately 5.9 million users of such services.

In addition, the Nordea Group acts as an asset manager within the Nordic region and Baltic Sea region with EUR 158.1 billion in assets under management as per 31 December 2009. The Nordea Group also provides life insurance products.

The Formation of the Nordea Group

Nordea was created through international mergers among four large Nordic financial institutions which gradually resulted in the creation of a single unit. Nordea's predecessors were Nordea Bank Sverige AB (publ) (formerly Nordbanken AB (publ)) in Sweden, ("Nordea Bank Sverige"), which, on 1 March 2004, merged with the Group's parent company and underwent a change of name to Nordea Bank AB (publ); Nordea Bank Danmark A/S (formerly Unibank A/S) in Denmark, ("Nordea Bank Danmark"); Nordea Bank Finland (formerly Merita Bank Plc) in Finland, ("Nordea Bank Finland"); and Nordea Bank Norge ASA (formerly Christiania Bank og Kreditkasse ASA) in Norway, ("Nordea Bank Norge").

After the Group's parent company had adopted the name Nordea AB (publ) at the end of 2000, the name “Nordea” was gradually introduced and adopted by the banks within the Group and, by December 2001, the banks and branch offices within the Group had adopted the name Nordea.

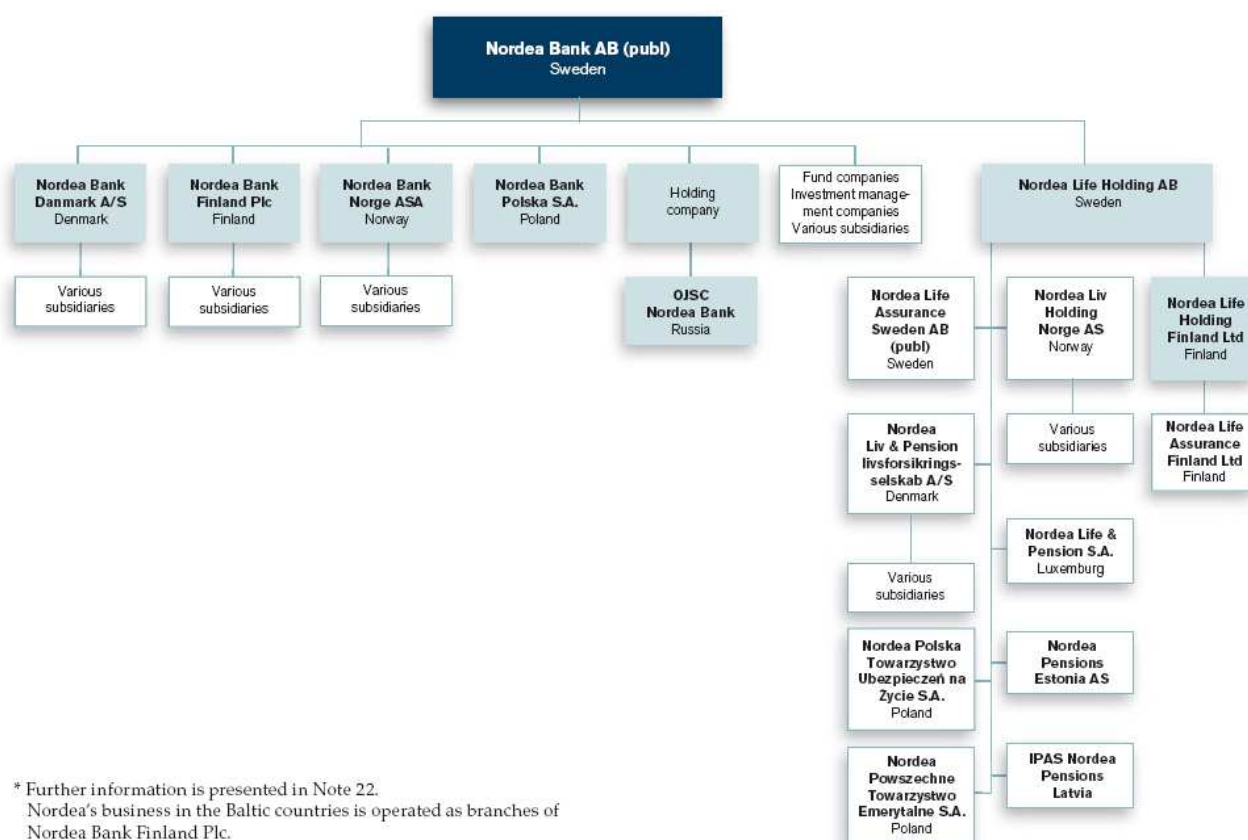

Legal structure

Following the completion of the merger between the predecessors of Nordea Bank Sverige and Nordea Bank Finland in 1998, the Group's legal structure has been further developed. To improve operating capacity, reduce risk exposure and enhance capital efficiency, the Nordea Group's Board of Directors commenced a radical change in the Group's legal structure in June 2003.

The internal restructuring commenced in 2003 when Nordea AB (publ) acquired Nordea Bank Sverige, Nordea Bank Danmark and Nordea Bank Norge from Nordea Bank Finland. At the same time, Nordea AB (publ) also acquired Nordea North America, Inc. from Nordea Bank Finland. Nordea AB (publ), the parent company of the Nordea Group, was re-established as a bank and the name was changed to Nordea Bank AB (publ). Thereafter, Nordea Bank Sverige merged with NBAB. The merger was registered at the Swedish Patent and Registration Office (currently the Swedish Companies Registration Office) on 1 March 2004.

Nordea aims to continue to simplify its legal structure and, as part of this process, aims to convert Nordea Bank AB (publ) into a European company, a “Societas Europaea,” in accordance with the Council Regulation (EC) No 2157/2001 (the European Company Statute). No formal decision on the conversion has, however, been made as of the date of this Base Prospectus. The conversion, if implemented, will be conditional on, among other things, Nordea obtaining necessary approvals from the relevant authorities. As all regulatory responses to the financial turmoil have not yet been determined and evaluated, Nordea is waiting for the final regulatory and legislative measures, particularly in relation to issues relating to the guarantee of deposits, prior to making a final decision on the conversion. Nordea continues to follow and analyze the proposed changes, which are not expected to be finalised during 2010.

The following chart set forth the legal structure of the Nordea Group as at 31 December 2010:

Nordea's Operating Model

Nordea's operating model is designed to support the organic growth strategy of the Nordea Group. It ensures operational efficiency by improving the quality of customer relations, increasing the time spent with customers and reducing the time required to bring new products and services to market. A fundamental principle of the operating model is to avoid overlapping functions or activities across organisational units or cross-border along the value chain and to ensure clear responsibilities

The operating model is common for all Nordic markets, is gradually being implemented in the New European Markets and reflected in the organisation of the Nordea Group.

The diagram below presents Nordea's operating model:

Integrated Group operating model

The operating model divides Nordea's operations into four areas:

Customer Areas: The Nordea Group has divided its operations into three business areas that focus on customer relations: Nordic Banking, Private Banking and Institutional & International Banking (the "customer areas"). The customer areas are responsible for advising customers and for product sales. Nordic Banking, the Nordea Group's largest customer area, serves household customers and corporate customers in the Nordic markets. Private Banking serves the Nordea Group's Nordic and international private banking customers. Institutional & International Banking has global customer responsibility for financial institutions and shipping, offshore and oil services companies, and also includes the Nordea Group's banking activities in the New European Markets. Segment Household and Segment Corporate within Nordic Banking are responsible for segmentation and value propositions, acting as co-ordinators and the first point of entry to the sales organization for product units.

Product Areas: The product and service delivery chain has been streamlined by organizing all products and services across the Nordea Group into two product areas, Banking Products and Capital Markets & Savings (the "product areas"). Within these product areas, the Nordea Group has organised all products and related processing into four main product divisions: Account Products and Transaction Products (in the Banking Products product area) and Capital Markets Products and Savings Products & Asset Management (in the Capital Markets & Savings product area). The product areas are group-wide and responsible for ensuring common simple and transparent delivery processes and a flexible and fast product development. The focus in the current macroeconomic environment is on simple products with low capital requirements as well as on risk management products.

Group Operations and Service and Staff Units: Group Operations and Service and Staff Units support the customer areas and the product areas and are responsible for providing basic infrastructure for business, making it easier for customers to do business with Nordea. As part of its growth strategy, the Nordea Group has introduced initiatives to improve its IT performance, products platforms and infrastructure in order to secure a competitive edge for future growth of its business.

The Nordea Group's financial reporting structure is largely aligned with its operating model and divides the Nordea Group's operations into Nordic Banking; New European Markets, Financial Institutions and Shipping, Oil Services & International (prior to January 1, 2009, aggregated under Institutional & International Banking); and Other Operating Segments.

Customer Areas and Customer Segments

At the core of the Nordea Group's strategy is segmentation of customers and differentiating both value proposition and resource allocation according to customer needs. The Nordea Group's customer activities are organized around two major customer groups: household customers and corporate customers. With both its household customers and corporate customers, the Nordea Group seeks to build long-term banking relationships and become a lifetime financial partner by gaining an understanding of the customers' specific product and service needs and offering products and advice tailored to meet those requirements.

To serve its household customers and corporate customers, the Nordea Group has divided its operations into three customer areas (Nordic Banking, Private Banking and Institutional & International Banking) and two product areas (Banking Products and Capital Markets & Savings). The customer areas and product areas operate as separate profit units.

Nordic Banking

Nordic Banking is the largest of the customer areas in Nordea. Nordic Banking is responsible for customer relations and retail to household and corporate customers in the Nordic region. Nordic Banking develops cross-border customer strategies, sales processes and customer concepts for these segments. The business is operated through Banking Denmark, Banking Finland, Banking Norway and Banking Sweden and includes Corporate Merchant Banking.

In Nordic Banking, the Nordea Group operates a multi-channel distribution strategy in its household customer segment to ensure that household customers can access banking services when and how it suits them. The three core elements of the distribution strategy are the branches, the contact centres and on-line or mobile banking. Through the Nordea Group's common customer relationship system, the three distribution channels are fully integrated, so that customer interaction in one channel is simultaneously recorded in all channels. The Nordea Group assigns household customers in each of the Nordic markets to one of four segments based on the business volume and number of products and services the customer has with the Nordea Group: Private Banking customers and Gold, Silver and Bronze customers in the Nordea Group's customer programmes. The Nordea Group's advisors work to develop relationships with the Nordea Group's household customers and to provide them with product solutions tailored to meet their individual banking needs, including products and services from the following product areas: Account Products, Transactions Products, Savings Products & Asset Management and Capital Markets Products.

In the Nordic markets, the Nordea Group divides its corporate customers into the following customer segments: Corporate Merchant Banking ("CMB"), Large, Medium and Small. The CMB organization serves Nordea's largest Nordic customers in one central unit in each market. The Nordea Group seeks to establish strategic partnerships with its CMB customers, by becoming their primary source for a wide range of financial services, including day-to-day banking services such as cash management. The Nordea Group provides CMB customers with tailored, highly individualized product solutions and terms. A central part of the Nordea Group's corporate strategy is to create value by relationship banking, through a named senior relationship manager responsible for developing and organizing the customer relationship and having a total view of the customer's business and financial affairs. In the upper segments (CMB as well as Large corporate customers to a large degree), the Nordea Group is building strategic relationships through a structured relationship management process. The Nordea Group's specialist advisors work to develop relationships with Nordea's corporate customers in the Nordic markets to provide them with product solutions tailored to meet their banking needs.

Private Banking

The Nordea Group operates its Private Banking business through an integrated model with Nordic Banking. The Nordea Group believes that this integrated operating model enables it to fully leverage the distribution capabilities and customer base of the whole Nordea Group as well as to utilize all of the investment and product development competencies in the Nordea Group.

In addition to its Nordic Private Banking operations, the Nordea Group engages in International Private Banking operations that are targeted at both customers of a Nordic origin domiciled outside the Nordic region and international customers of non-Nordic origin.

Institutional & International Banking

Within the Nordea Group, Institutional & International Private Banking has global customer responsibility for the Nordea Group's customers in the New European Markets as well as for financial institutions and for shipping, offshore and oil companies.

New European Markets comprise Nordea's operations in Poland, Russia and the Baltic countries. In each of these markets, the Nordea Group has a full-service offer to household as well as corporate customers. The customer segmentation and value propositions used in the Nordic countries are being implemented first in Poland and the Baltic countries, subsequently followed by Russia. Most risk management measures and procedures in New European Markets have been aligned within the Group, and the business operations are in the process of being aligned with the integrated Group operating model.

Customers of the Financial Institutions division include approximately 400 Nordic and 100 international financial institutions and 700 banking groups. When serving large financial institution customers, such as banks, investment banks, hedge funds and other financial institutions, the Nordea Group employs the relationship banking concept used for Large corporates and for the CMB customer segments in Nordic Banking, seeking to establish a strategic partnership with the customer and provide specialized advice and tailored products and services.

The Nordea Group is one of the world's leading providers of financial services to the shipping and oil services industries based on the value of syndicated shipping loans. The Nordea Group believes that this position is based on broad industry knowledge, extensive structuring capabilities, sizable syndicated loan underwriting capacity and a strong syndication franchise combined with placing power.

The Nordea Group is present in 19 countries around the world, operating an international network of branches in New York, London, Frankfurt, Shanghai and Singapore, as well as representative offices in Sao Paulo and Beijing. In addition to its own network, the Nordea Group has entered into various co-operation agreements with banks around the world. As a result, the Nordea Group is able to offer its Nordic corporate customers high quality solutions for their international business. The product offering focuses on day-to-day banking services, credit products, cash management, trade finance and capital markets products.

Product Areas

The Nordea Group's product and service delivery chain has been streamlined by organizing all products and related processing into two product areas, Banking Products, Capital Markets & Savings and Life & Pensions with a simplified governance structure for the interface between customer and product units. The Banking Products and Capital Markets & Savings product areas have been further divided into five product divisions: Account Products, Transaction Products, Capital Markets Products, Savings Products & Asset Management and Life & Pensions. The product divisions are responsible for sales support, advisory tools and product concepts, specialist competences and product development as well as the production and delivery of the various products and services.

Account Products

The Account Products product division is responsible for the Nordea Group's product offerings within deposits, credits and loan products and the Private Netbank. The division is also responsible for the mortgage subsidiaries Nordea Kredit Realkreditaktieselskab in Denmark, Nordea Hypotek AB (publ) in Sweden and Nordea Eiendomskreditt AS in Norway.

Transaction Products

The Transaction Products division consists of three units, each representing a value chain: Cash Management, Trade & Project Finance and Securities Services. The division is responsible for the product offering within, among others, transaction products and services, working capital related services, corporate e-channels, trade, sales and transaction related financing, and asset based lending. Each unit is responsible for sales, customer support, product development and processing.

The Nordea Group's Strategy

Three years ago, Nordea embarked on a clear organic growth strategy in the Nordic markets as well as the New European Markets. This new strategic direction is maintained despite the much more challenging macroeconomic environment, but the execution has been adjusted to reflect the uncertainty of the strength of the economic recovery. The Nordea Group's strategy is characterised by prudent growth carefully balancing risks and opportunities and consists of the following three components:

Increase business with existing Nordic customers and attract new customers

Nordea believes that the first and most important organic growth area is to increase business with existing Nordic household and corporate customers and to focus on attracting new profitable, high-quality customers through a pro-active relationship banking strategy by proactively elevating relationship customers in the Nordic markets to higher customer segments and attracting new relationship customers with the goal of increasing the Nordea Group's share of each customer's total banking activities. The Nordea Group has launched major group initiatives to support the growth strategy in the Nordic countries. These initiatives include the addition of new advisors in the Gold and private banking segments to serve existing and new customers. The Nordea Group has also introduced specific growth plans for its Finnish operations as well as Corporate Merchant Banking operations in Sweden, where Nordea sees significant potential for new business. The Nordea Group will also continue to strengthen its sale of risk management products to corporate and institutional customers and its equity and corporate finance functions. The Group's cash management services will be further developed for all corporate customer segments as cash management services are key to the customers' daily services and to customer retention. The Nordea Group plans to make investments in these initiatives during a three-year period ending 2012 and expects benefits to start accruing from 2011. The organic growth strategy in the Nordic region is supplemented by very selective bolt-on acquisitions supporting retail banking activities.

Supplement Nordic growth through investments in the New European Markets

The Nordea Group entered this region initially to primarily service Nordic corporate customers with business in these countries. The original strategy has gradually been developed to include local customers, and today the Nordea Group, in addition to its Nordic customers, is targeting the upper segments among household customers and medium-sized corporate customers in the New European Markets. In parallel with the development of distribution capabilities, the Nordea Group is expanding its product range and service levels in the New European Markets. However, as a result of the adverse financial and macroeconomic conditions and the high uncertainty and risks in the New European Markets during the past two years, the speed of the development of the Nordea Group's business in these markets has been reduced. The branch network expansion in Russia and the Baltic countries has been halted. Poland has been less affected by the financial and economic crisis than the other New European Markets, and the growth plan for Poland has been resumed. The Nordea Group plans to open up to 50 new branches in 2010 in Poland, following the 114 new branches opened in Poland since the beginning of 2007. Furthermore, the corporate merchant banking capabilities in Poland will be strengthened and local top-tier corporates will, on a selective basis, be actively targeted with the aim of building long-term house-bank relations. The long-term strategic direction for New European Markets is to continue the profitable growth strategy and gradually develop these operations into diversified full-scale banking businesses integrated with the rest of the Nordea

Group, with the customer segmentation and value propositions used in the Nordic countries being implemented first in Poland and the Baltic countries, subsequently followed by Russia.

Exploit global and European business lines

The Nordea Group has a successful track record within the international shipping and oil services sector as well as within wealth management outside the Nordic markets and the New European Markets. The Nordea Group's strategy is to establish and preserve long-term partnerships with high quality, large, transparent and, preferably, publicly-listed companies. In addition, the Nordea Group aims at maintaining a well diversified and secured lending portfolio across segments and geographical regions as well as a strong loan syndication franchise. The Nordea Group's International Private Banking & Funds is one of the largest Nordic private banking operations in Luxembourg and Switzerland. The operation includes private banking services and European fund distribution. The Nordea Group's International Private Banking pursues a primarily organic growth strategy, and its European fund distribution is positioned as a multi-service boutique with a range of own and in-sourced products distributed to institutional customers. To supplement its organic growth, the Nordea Group selectively executes small acquisitions from time to time.

Recent Developments

Amendments to the articles of association

The Annual General Meeting for 2010 (the "2010 AGM") has approved that article 10 of the articles of association may be amended so that notice to attend the general meeting must be given by advertisement in the Swedish Official Gazette and on the Nordea's web site. There must be notification that such a notice has been given and this must be advertised in Dagens Nyheter. The resolution to amend the articles of association is conditional on that an amendment regarding the way general meetings are convened in the Swedish Companies Act has entered into force and that the amendment means that the proposed wording of article 10 is consistent with the Swedish Companies Act.

Dividend Policy

The 2010 AGM has approved a dividend payout for 2009 of EUR 0.25 per share. The total dividend payment for 2009 will therefore be EUR 1,006 million, corresponding to a payout ratio for 2009 of 43 per cent. of the net profit, in line with NBAB's dividend policy

Acquisition and conveyance of own shares

The 2010 AGM has authorised NBAB's board of directors, for the period until the next annual general meeting, to repurchase NBAB's ordinary shares on a regulated market where the NBAB's ordinary shares are quoted, or according to an acquisition offer to all holders of ordinary shares, in order to facilitate an adjustment of the company's capital structure to prevailing capital requirements and to facilitate the use of its own shares as payment for or financing of acquisition of companies or businesses. Nordea Group's holdings of own shares may not at any time exceed ten per cent of the total number of shares in the company. Acquisition of shares on a regulated market may only take place within the registered price interval at any time, meaning the interval between the highest buying price and the lowest selling price. Acquisition of ordinary shares according to an acquisition offer to all shareholders may take place at a premium of up to 30 per cent.

The 2010 AGM has authorised NBAB's board of directors, for the period until the next annual general meeting, to convey own ordinary shares to be used as payment for or financing of acquisitions of companies or businesses. Conveyance may be made in other ways than on a regulated market. Conveyance shall take place at an assessed market value and may be made with deviations from the shareholders' preferential right. Payment for conveyed ordinary shares may be made in cash, by contribution in kind, or through set-off of claims against NBAB.

Acquisition of own shares within securities operations

The 2010 AGM resolved that the Nordea Group, up and until the next annual general meeting, may continuously acquire own ordinary shares in order to facilitate its securities operations. The holdings of such shares may not exceed one per cent of all shares in the company.

Guidelines for remuneration to the executive officers

The 2010 AGM resolved that Nordea shall maintain remuneration levels and other employment conditions needed to recruit and retain executive officers with competence and capacity to deliver according to Nordea's short and long term targets. Remuneration of executive officers will be decided by the board of directors in accordance with Nordea's internal policies and procedures, which are based on the SFSA's regulations and general guidelines on remuneration policy as well as international sound compensation practices. In this context, the principles established by the Financial Stability Board ("FSB") and the European Commission are of particular importance.

Salaries and other remuneration in line with market levels is the overriding principle for compensation to the executive officers. Compensation to the executive officers shall be consistent with and promote sound and effective risk management and not encourage excessive risk-taking or counteract Nordea's long term interests.

Fixed salary is paid for fully satisfactory performance. In addition variable salary part can be offered to reward performance meeting agreed predetermined targets on the Nordea Group, business unit and individual level. The effect on the long term result is to be considered when determining the targets. The variable salary part shall as a general rule not exceed 35 per cent of fixed salary. In accordance with international principles guaranteed variable salary part is to be exceptional and may only occur in the context of hiring a new executive officer and then be limited to the first year. A major component of the variable salary part shall be deferred with a minimum deferment period and with claw back clauses according to the SFSA's regulations and general guidelines on remuneration policy taking account of domestic rules and practices where relevant.

Long Term Incentive Programme for managers and key employees

The 2010 AGM resolved to introduce a Long Term Incentive Programme ("LTIP 2010") based on the similar principles as LTIP 2007, LTIP 2008 and LTIP 2009 and also comprising up to 400 managers and other key employees in the Nordea Group, who are deemed to be of considerable significance for the Nordea Group's future development, as was the case with the three corresponding programmes implemented in 2007, 2008 and 2009. Compared to previous programmes, the vesting period is extended from two to three years. Besides, participants are allotted Nordea shares free of charge.

The main objective of LTIP 2010 is to strengthen Nordea's ability to retain and recruit the best talent for key leadership positions. Further, the aim is that the managers and key employees whose efforts have direct impact on Nordea's result, profitability and long term value growth, shall be stimulated to increased efforts by aligning their interests and perspectives with those of the shareholders.

The programmes are combined matching and performance programmes, which require the participants to invest in NBAB's shares. Remuneration, with a capped maximum gain, depends among other things on the achievement of Nordea's financial goals.

Nordea's exposure to Greece, Ireland, Italy, Portugal and Spain

On 10 May 2010 Nordea issued the following press release in relation to recent developments within the Euro region. Nordea has through its liquidity buffer exposure to Greece, Ireland, Italy, Portugal and Spain. The size of the buffer is approximately EUR 50bn, of which approximately 1.5 per cent relates to these countries. Sovereign debt to Greece is less than one per cent of the buffer. The maturity of the sovereign debt is less than one year. In addition, Nordea has a marginal exposure related to trade finance and other bank products.

First quarter results 2010

The interim report for the first quarter 2010 shows an operating profit for the first three months of 2010 of EUR 878 million, as compared to EUR 833 million for the corresponding period in 2009. The earnings of the period amounted to EUR 643 million which equals EUR 0.16 per share and the return on equity for the first three months amounted to 11.3 per cent. The net interest income amounted to EUR 1,235 million for the first three months compared to EUR 1,356 million for the same period in 2009. The total operating expenses amounted to EUR 1,164 million, which was an increase compared with the same period the preceding year when the total operating expenses amounted to EUR 1,090 million. The loan losses amounted to a net of EUR 261 million (to be compared with net loan losses of EUR 356 million during the first quarter 2009).

Capital Adequacy

Nordea is in the process of transitioning to the Basel II capital adequacy framework, which is expected to be completed in 2010. During the transition period Nordea uses a variety of capital measurements and capital ratios to manage its capital. The regulatory transition rules comprise a floor on Nordea's requirements when compared to Basel II (Pillar 1) minimum requirements. RWA are calculated based on pillar 1 requirements. Nordea had 79% of the exposure covered by Internal Rating Based ("IRB") approaches by the end of 2009. Nordea will implement the IRB approach for some remaining portfolios. Nordea is also approved to use its own internal Value-at-Risk ("Var") models to calculate capital requirements for the major parts of the market risk in the trading books. For operational risk, the standardised approach is applied.

Nordea has aligned its capital structure policy as part of ongoing implementation of the Basel II framework. Nordea bases the internal capital requirements under the Internal Capital Adequacy Assessment Process ("ICAAP") on pillar 1 and pillar 2 risks, which in practice means a combination of Capital Requirements Directive ("CRD") risk definitions, Nordea's Economic Capital ("EC") framework and buffers for periods of economic stress.

The ICAAP describes Nordea's management, mitigation and measurement of material risks and assesses the adequacy of internal capital by defining an internal capital requirement reflecting the risk appetite of the institution.

EC is based on quantitative models used to estimate the unexpected losses for each of the following major risk types: credit risk, market risk, operational risk, business risk and life insurance risk. Additionally, the EC models explicitly account for interest rate risk in the banking book, market risk in the investment portfolios, risk in Nordea's sponsored defined benefit pension plans, real estate risk and concentration risk.

For 2010, the EC has been further aligned with the regulatory capital calculations by substitution of the internal estimates of Loss Given Default ("LGD") and Credit Conversion Factors ("CCF") for the corporate and institution portfolios with the estimates used under the Foundation IRB approach. As a consequence of on average higher LGD and CCF the EC will increase.

Government Stabilisation Plans

Government guarantee schemes

The Nordic governments have established a number of measures in response to the global financial crisis. The measures were presented during the autumn of 2008 and the beginning of 2009. Similar to many stability packages within EU, the measures include the following elements: implementation of a general framework for giving state support to ailing credit institutions, the creation of a stabilisation fund, a temporary guarantee program and a recapitalisation scheme.

Denmark

The Nordea Group decided for commercial reasons that Nordea Bank Danmark A/S would participate in the Danish guarantee scheme introduced in October 2008. The scheme is valid for two years until the end of September 2010 and guarantees the claims of unsecured senior creditors against losses in participating banks. In 2009, the costs related to the Danish guarantee scheme to the Nordea Group were EUR 181 million in annual commission expenses and an additional EUR 116 million that was reported as loan losses. Following Nordea's rights offering in April 2009, the Nordea Group elected not to apply for hybrid loans from the Danish state.

Finland

In Finland, the Finnish government may make state capital investments in deposit banks, in addition to which the Finnish State may grant state guarantees for the refunding of Finnish banks for debts with aggregate maximum nominal amount of EUR 17 billion. As of the date of this Base Prospectus, the Nordea Group has not participated in the Finnish scheme.

Norway

The Norwegian stabilization scheme includes a swap facility for banks whereby government bonds can be exchanged for mortgage bonds. In the fourth quarter of 2008, the Nordea Group participated in the swap facility under the Norwegian scheme. Due to improved market conditions, the exchange arrangement is currently not commercially attractive to a majority of the relevant institutions, and the discontinuation, in part or in full, of the arrangement will be considered. Further a scheme to provide core capital and subordinated loans has been established. Nordea has not participated as a borrower under the latter.

Sweden

As of the date of this Base Prospectus, the Nordea Group has not participated in the Swedish government's stability scheme. However, in order to facilitate the Swedish State's subscription in Nordea's rights offering in 2009 through the government's recapitalization scheme, Nordea signed an agreement with the Swedish National Debt Office. The Swedish State's capital injection was financed through the State's stabilisation fund. The stabilisation fund is financed with fees paid by banks and other credit institutions. The total stabilisation fee paid by the Nordea Group in Sweden was EUR 20 million in 2009.
